U.S. Red Trial Closing

NEW YORK (UP)—The Communist conspiracy trial jury was hearing final charges and counter-charges by the defence and prosecution today, and the nine-month-old case was expected to be in the hands of the jurors by tomorrow.

Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the Communist Party, finished his plea for acquittal of himself and other members of the party's 11-man "national board" accused of plotting to teach and advocate the overthrow of the government by force.

After Dennis, the actual head of the American Communists since the illness of party chairman William Z. Foster, finished for the Communist defendants, U.S. attorney John F. X. McGohey started the government's summation.

McGohey was expected to complete his summary this afternoon or tomorrow morning, after which federal Judge Harold R. Medina will make his final charge and send the jurors out to decide the guilt or innocence of the U.S. Communist "politburo."

160TH DAY

Today was the 160th trial day of the case, which began last Jan. 17.

The 44-year-old Dennis, who acted as his own attorney began winding up the Communist defence Tuesday by labeling the long trial as a "misérable" example of "thought" control and "police state methods."

He said conviction of the Communist leaders would bring persecution of every party member in the nation.

Eden Scores Devaluation As British Tories Gather

LONDON (CP)—Britain's Conservatives opened their annual party conference today in an atmosphere of election fever, with Deputy Leader Anthony Eden blasting sterling devaluation as a cut in wages, living standards and social services.

However, there were increasing signs that Prime Minister Attlee's government may wait until next spring before calling an election, for which there has been increasing pressure ever since last month's devaluation of the pound sterling from $4.03 to $2.80 in United States funds.

Attlee will see Foreign Secretary Bevan tonight on the election question. The Press Association's political expert, who often has political guidance, said some informed Labor members would bet 100 to 1 against an election in November. The Labor government's five-year term is set to expire next July, but Attlee can call an election any time before then.

The Tory conference, biggest in the Conservative Party's history with 4,500 delegates attending, unanimously adopted a resolution condemning the Labor government's financial and economic policies.

The action came after the delegates had heard Eden call the devaluation "a cut in wages, in the standard of living and in the social services."

"The fact that it is an indirect cut does not make it less real or painful," Eden said.

'Too Much Destruction' Of Wealth

The wartime Foreign Minister said the Labor government "has spent too much time destroying wealth and too little time creating it," adding that unless Britain takes a new course, the fall in the standard of living, "which must be any event be painful, will be catastrophic."

"What must we do?" Eden asked. "We can promise nothing but hard and challenging times. That is now the only road to national solvency."

$100,000 Damage In Chilliwack Fire

CHILLIWACK (CP)—Damage estimated at $100,000 was caused last night when flames roared through the huge Collins-Mackenzie lumber mill, three miles west of Chilliwack.

The flames broke out in the main mill building. It enveloped the plant before fire-fighting equipment could be brought in. It is believed to have started where repairs were being made on a machine bearing.

Thousands of board feet of lumber were destroyed.

Spectacular Fire At Port Alberni

PORT ALBERNI—A spectacular fire totally destroyed a large building at Glenwood area. Flames broke through an empty former army barracks about 5.20 and raged for one hour before volunteer brigades from Glenwood and Port Alberni subdued the fire.

The building was owned by the Alberni District Fall Fair board and was to have been moved at a later date. No supplies other than windows were stored there at the time of the fire.

Flames from the burning structure were visible for miles and a huge crowd gathered to watch volunteer firemen battle the blaze.

Escaped Convict Shot To Death By Montreal Officer

MONTREAL (CP)—A 19-year-old escaped convict was shot and killed by an off-duty constable early today as he and two other escaped prisoners were trying to break into a private home in the northeast section of this city.

Police identified the dead youth as Jean Charles Labrosse. He was shot by Constable Emile Votro, 36, who was on his way home when he noticed the trio trying to enter a Berri Street home.

Labrosse's companions, Roger Ouellette, 21, and Gaston Mercier, 18, were arrested and are being held in police cells here pending their return to the St. Jerome, Que., jail from which they escaped shortly before midnight.

The youth was killed as he attempted to frighten the officer with a piece of metal in his hand. Votro whipped out his own service revolver and fired one bullet into the convict's face.

Labrosse died instantly.

Says East Germany Formed To Avert Threats Of War

BERLIN (UP)—Communist Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl said today that Russia virtually was forced by "the serious threat of war in Europe" to form the new East German government.

Unification of Germany was more urgent than ever, Grotewohl told a joint session of both houses of the new East German legislature in his maiden speech as Prime Minister.

Grotewohl delivered a major statement of policy for the new East German government in an hour-long speech in which he said the new state would:

Vote May End Work In Woods

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Three hundred lumber inspectors who could tie up most of British Columbia's multi-million dollar lumber industry were expected to have voted in favor of strike action in a government-supervised strike-ballot held last week.

Results of the vote by the Lumber Inspectors' Union (C.C.L.) will be announced Friday by Dan Radford, Canadian Congress of Labor organizer at Vancouver. C.C.L. official Bert Gargrave said in Vancouver he expected the inspectors, who are scattered along the coastline from this district to Prince Rupert, voted for strike action to back up their demands for 25 cents an hour pay boost, six statutory holidays and union security. Inspectors now earn a basic rate of $1.47 an hour.

A walk-out by the 300 lumber inspectors would tie up most of the B.C. lumber industry, and International Woodworkers of America, Local 7, in British Columbia has stated it would support them. I.W.A. Local 1 President Stewart Ashbury said his union members would not handle any lumber normally classified by the inspectors in the event of a strike.

Gen. Pearkes Urges Atom Bomb Used As Bargaining Counter

OTTAWA (BUP)—A suggestion that the western democracies use the atom bomb as a bargaining counter in an effort to maintain world peace was voiced today by a Canadian soldier-politician.

He is Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, who won the Victoria Cross in the First World War, commanded the First Canadian Division in the second, and now sits as Progressive Conservative Member of Parliament for Nanaimo.

"Now that Russia has the atomic bomb, it looks as if there is going to be an armaments race between her and the western powers," Gen. Pearkes told the British United Press. "This means that time is running out on our efforts to keep world peace."

"The atomic bomb will not win wars by itself, any more than any other weapon. I do not of course under-rate its importance, but I have no doubt counter-measures against it will be devised."

"At present, the United States has a substantial lead in the field of atomic armament, but sooner or later Russia will catch up. The danger point will come when Russia thinks she has as many bombs as the United States and feels she could try a test of strength."

"Therefore, I feel that we—Canada, the United States, Britain and the western powers generally—should try to use the atomic bomb as a bargaining counter in an effort, to bring about a limitation of armaments and so ensure world peace."

Horde Of Evacuees Crowd Hongkong; Plane Service Cut

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

HONGKONG (AP)—Nationalist defences in south China crumbled today before fast-moving Communist armies.

Red elements were reported within 35 miles of the tottering provisional capital at Canton. The government fled to Chungking, far in the interior. Thousands of evacuees jammed Hongkong.

Pro-Nationalist reports here said Communist troops had entered outlying suburbs northeast of Canton. Hard-driving Red columns under Gen. Chen Keng struck toward the city on all northern fronts.

Independent military observers expressed belief the main body of Communists still is probably some 50 miles to the north and northeast of Canton.

There has been no sign of resistance from the five Nationalist armies supposedly lined up to defend Canton. An estimated 80,000 government troops were falling back on the city. Communist dispatches speculated they would be evacuated by sea to Formosa and Hainan Islands.

Chinese newspapers said Acting President Li Tsung-jen may go to Kweilin, capital of Kwangsi province, instead of following the government to Chungking. He would join his close associate, Gen. Pai Chung-hsi, who has just withdrawn 200,000 troops into Kwangsi—the best unified force remaining to the Nationalists.

Chinese steamship companies canceled runs from Hongkong to Canton. The Hongkong government ordered suspension of air traffic between Canton and the British Crown Colony's airfield.

Communist military dispatches said Swatow, on the China coast northeast of Canton, already had fallen. Amoy, they said, was tottering. The Reds claimed the Nationalists were pulling out of most of their holdout positions all along the coast.

If Li refuses to go to Chungking, the action will be interpreted as indicating a complete break between Chiang and the Kwangsi clique headed by Li. Centres of remaining resistance.

New C.N.R. Chief Predicts Great Era Due For Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Donald Gordon said today Canada stands on the verge of "a great era of progress" and he hopes to help in developing the country's transportation system in the March forward.

Because of his financial background, reporters threw questions at him about the controversial financial structure of the railway, which is heavily burdened with debt.

He said there had been no discussion between himself and

They claimed the ore sent to Ottawa for assay contained 1.52 per cent of uranium oxide.

"They said the Eldorado Mine—Canada's richest uranium producer—has ore containing 1 per cent uranium oxide."

Grade A medium eggs will retail at 64 cents.

Mr. Gordon was asked to elaborate about his prophesy of Canadian progress. "It's fairly obvious," he said. "There is a ceiling in the air" rooted in Alberta oil, in iron ore, in metals, copper and other mineral developments.

Evacuees Of Canton Area Fill Hongkong

Nationalist Leaders Squabbling

Meanwhile, Nationalist leaders continued to squabble.

Li was again trying to resist efforts by "retired" President Chiang Kai-shek to run the South China show. Pai's abrupt withdrawal from Hunan Province was said to have resulted from Chiang's failure to provide sufficient funds from his treasury on Formosa to pay the troops.

If Li refuses to go to Chungking, the action will be interpreted as indicating a complete break between Chiang and the Kwangsi clique headed by Li. Centres of remaining resistance to the Reds would then operate more or less independently in Kwangsi, Szechwan and Formosa.

Chinese steamship companies canceled runs from Hongkong to Canton. The Hongkong government ordered suspension of air traffic between Canton and the British Crown Colony's airfield.

Communist military dispatches said Swatow, on the China coast northeast of Canton, already had fallen. Amoy, they said, was tottering. The Reds claimed the Nationalists were pulling out of most of their holdout positions all along the coast.

Drifting Freighter Asks U.S. Cutter To Give Her Tow

SEATTLE (AP) — With wind in the North Pacific increasing, the propellerless Panamanian freighter Navigator called on the U.S. Coast Guard today to take it in tow.

District Coast Guard headquarters here said the cutter Chautauqua was preparing to do so. The Chautauqua has stood by the disabled ship for two nights and a day. It reported the Navigator had rejected a tow offer during the night, but asked for one early today as heavier seas appeared in the offing.

Earlier, the plan was for the Navigator to drift until the tug Salvage King arrives at the scene. It left Victoria Tuesday for an estimated five-day 900-mile run.

The Navigator lost her propeller in rough seas early Monday while en route to Vancouver, B.C., from the Orient. The crew is believed to include 35 men.

Mr. Abbott introduced the budget originally last March 22, but the session was prorogued April 30 without the budget having been approved.

Mr. Abbott did not indicate if the budget will be changed in anyway from the original document.

Income tax changes announced in the original budget and made retroactive to Jan. 1 have been in effect since March 22.

Reports Say 50,000 In Czechoslovakia Seized In Round-up

PRAGUE (UP) — Scores of middle-class Czechs were reported arrested today by Communist police in unremitting raids in this city of apprehension.

Reliable sources said those arrested were hurried to district police stations to await transportation to the concentration camp at Svaty Jan Pod Skalou (St. John Under the Rock).

Evidence mounted that the mass arrests, now going on for more than a week, were part of a campaign to eliminate members of the middle class who resisted the Communist regime.

The Prague radio Tuesday denounced former businessmen, land-owners and industrialists who "crawl underground to whither to one another and go ahead with their filthy work against the workers who rule the state at present."

A complete lack of official comment on the arrests did nothing to discourage speculation that the drive had netted up to 10,000 persons in Prague and up to 50,000 in all Czechoslovakia.

No accurate figures were available. Estimates were plentiful, many of them from persons affected one way or another by the sweep.

None knew where the police would call next with the summons, "We come for you."

Seeks Old Friends

LONDON (UP) — Former Capt. Herbert Schneider of the German Luftwaffe, now studying parliamentary procedure in London, said today he would like to meet six old British friends of his.

He said the six Britishers were R.A.F. fliers who shot him down over Leyden, Holland, in May, 1940, while he was flying a Stuka dive bomber.

No Orders To Rouse Passengers

TORONTO (CP) — The ship's officer in charge of fire-fighting operations during the Noronic holocaust Sept. 17 testified today he issued no instructions to rouse passengers, although he realized at once the fire was uncontrollable.

First Mate F. Gerald Wood told the federal inquiry into the fire which took a toll of 105 identified dead and 19 missing, he knew the fire could not be controlled immediately after he had sounded the alarm.

He said no member of the crew was assigned the duty of rousing passengers in case of fire when the cruise steamship was in port.

A record of the all-night stopovers made by the cruise steamship since 1946 showed she was in port with passengers on five occasions before being swept by fire here Sept. 17.

Gets Police Help To Save Him From Drugs

A young war veteran who was feeling depressed over business problems last night took steps through the city police to protect himself from harm by turning over to the station drugs he had in his possession.

The man came to the station and handed over a tin containing hypodermic needles, bottles of Adrenalin solution and other articles which he said had been issued to him some time ago, owing to his nervous condition.

"I am feeling depressed over business matters and do not trust myself with them in my possession," said the veteran in handing over the articles.

Satellite Minister Called 'Chorus Boy' For Kremlin Policy

LAKE SUCCESS (UP) — Sir Hartley Shawcross, United Kingdom Attorney-General, told the United Nations today a foreign minister of a Russian satellite was a mere "chorus boy" who had no foreign policy "save that which is dictated by the Kremlin."

He referred to an earlier assertion by Ukrainian Foreign Minister Dmitri Z. Manuisky that Australia was merely "the chorus boy" of the United Kingdom and the United States.

King, Halsey Say Airmen's Theory Wrong

WASHINGTON (UP) — Two fleet admirals—Ernest J. King and William F. Halsey—denounced the atomic bombing theory of warfare today, and asked Congress to strip Defence Secretary Louis Johnson of authority to weaken United States naval power.

Both five-star veterans of the Second World War attacked what they called the air force's "mistaken, overplayed" theories of intercontinental bombing. Both said that in any war this country must hurl its striking power not at cities but at enemy military forces.

King, wartime Chief of Naval Operations, told the House armed services committee that "we have been over-emphasizing the atomic bomb and the bomber that was planned to deliver it."

The next war, "if we really expect to win it," will be fought much like the last—with vast armies and navies and the "important services" of long-range bombers, he said in a statement.

Doubts Russia Frightened

King said the notion that the Air Force's B-36 atom-bomb combination frightens Russia is "wishful thinking."

King did not appear in person. But Halsey, who as Third Fleet commander in the Pacific war guided history's greatest concentration of naval forces, did.

The hard-jawed, tough little man known as "Bull" rapped at "city bombing" as capable of accomplishing nothing but unification of enemy peoples in "fiery patriotism."

Halsey said the Air Force's high-flying, long-range, B-36 could stop nothing but enemy bullets. Like other navy witnesses, he declared it is too vulnerable to enemy fighter planes to be a useful weapon.

Cripps Says Some Britons May Have To Change Jobs

LONDON (AP) — Sir Stafford Cripps served notice on British workers today that some may have to give up their present jobs and go to work in dollar-earning industries.

"We now have a greatly improved opportunity to get into the dollar markets, which we must seize," the Chancellor of the Exchequer told a press conference. "That will undoubtedly entail some change in our pattern of employment."

During the war the government exercised the right to direct British working men and women into jobs where they were most needed. The government still has the right, but has not been using it. Sir Stafford did not say that it intended to use it again, but he did say:

"Full employment does not and can never mean that every individual job is guaranteed for as long as the present occupant wishes to stay in it. That would be industrial stagnation."

Employment in Britain at the end of July totaled 22,200,000, excluding members of the armed forces, the Chancellor said. This was 1 per cent greater than a year ago. The number of unemployed is around 300,000.

Sir Stafford said production in Britain is rising steadily. "For the last 12 months, he said, it has jumped 25 per cent compared with the 1946 average.

"In some industries this will mean longer hours. In every industry it will mean more effort or brain and muscle in the hours being worked," he said.

"Above all, we need a government that will tell the whole truth to the nation, however sharp and however disagreeable. Under Mr. Churchill's leadership we can accept the challenge. It can not come too soon."

Winston Churchill will wind up the conference with a speech Friday night.

BIRD'S EYE VIEW

SINCE WRITING MY LAST column I have spanned the Dominion from shore to shore—making my first flight across the whole continent and my first visit to the Maritimes.

Such are the wonders of modern travel that in 10 days we flew nearly 8,000 miles, spent one night in Toronto, four and a half days in Halifax, and one day and two nights in Ottawa.

And in the doing of it I got an entirely different picture of Canada from above than I had known from ground level; saw it, in fact, from the bird's-eye view, and found it intensely interesting.

PERFECT WEATHER

ON THE EASTWARD journey we enjoyed perfect weather, warm, with brilliant sunshine, blue skies and—except over the Rockies—an atmosphere so clear that you could see for miles and miles.

Looking down from above is like looking at a contour or topographical map. Except when over the highest peaks, you are not conscious of the varying heights of the land below you, as it tends to flatten itself out.

After leaving Vancouver I tried in vain to distinguish various places but found it hard to recognize even those I knew, so was surprised when the pilot's report told us we had passed Princeton. Suddenly, we thought we saw Nelson away off in the distance, perched on the rim of Kootenay Lake.

CLOUD EFFECTS

UNFORTUNATELY we entered the clouds soon after that, and our flight over the Rockies gave me the impression of plowing through an immense bubble-bath, as we winged through the soft, fleecy, but opaque mass. Not a peep of a peak did we see.

However, we made up for it on the return journey when we came over them by moonlight—the snow-clad peaks and icefields, far below, glistening with an awe-inspiring, aloof beauty which made them seem like something not of this earth. It was a picture I shall never forget.

After leaving the Rockies, we suddenly came out of the clouds and there was Calgary far below us, its colored rooftops and strictly rectangular streets giving it the appearance of a child's toy town.

FARMS AND FIELDS

IT IS WHEN YOU reach Alberta that you first realize the intensity of the prairie farms spread out below you in the golden autumn sunshine, great patches of newly-tilled earth alternating with the yellow of the recently-harvested grain crops.

Beyond Regina, which we crossed at 13,200 feet, the country takes on a different appearance, reminding one of rather drab, badly-worn linoleum, of hit-and-miss pattern, marked here and there with patches of what might have been alkali—or even snow; it was difficult to tell which at that height.

Nearing Winnipeg, the picture changed into a geometric pattern of vivid green fields, the golden beige of stubble, and the slate-grey of newly-plowed earth, the latter taking on a resemblance to corduroy as the plane gradually loses height for the come-down.

WATER AND ROCKS

ALTHOUGH I HAVE been through it many times by train, I had never before realized how much of Ontario consists of water and rocks. For miles and miles and miles we flew over rugged country in which literally thousands of lakes and rivers cut it up into a giant jigsaw puzzle of fantastic pieces.

At very rare intervals we got a glimpse of a clearing, suggesting a summer home or some settler's reclusive, although at 14,000 feet it was impossible to distinguish any sign of human habitation.

We traversed this part of Ontario against the background of a gorgeous sunset. A deep indigo band at the horizon had above it broad ribbons of jade, turquoise and amethyst which suddenly dissolved into a sheet of softest rose, resembling the fluffy breast of a flamingo. The effect can be better imagined than described.

TWIN CITIES

WHILE I HAVE BEEN to Fort William and Port Arthur on several occasions, I have never seen them as beautiful as they looked that night as we flew over them. It may be that the distance lent enchantment, but as they skirted the lake shore, their rectangular rows of street lights, many of which are red and blue, gave them the appearance of a diamond necklace with two jewelled pendants.

As we crossed the lake I looked back and the effect of the reflections of the lights in the dark waters was enchanting.

Then, almost before I had time to turn around in my seat, we had passed over Sault Ste. Marie at 298 miles an hour and were nearing Toronto, where we left the plane—after it had come to earth, of course. But, more tomorrow.

Courthouse, Art Gallery Proposed By Government

Education Minister W. T. Straith said Tuesday night the next major provincial government building project in Victoria would be the erection of a fine structure to house a courthouse, land registry office, museum and art gallery.

Site of the proposed building is the provincial government property bounded by Elliot, Government and Belleville Streets and Thunderbird Park. Once the proposed site of a palatial Canadian National Railways hotel, part of the property was acquired a few years ago by the provincial government from the city in exchange for a school site on Topaz Avenue.

Mr. Straith indicated that the building would be architecturally in keeping with the Parliament Buildings and the Empress Hotel. He said it would improve the beauty of the harbor area considerably.

No hint was given by the minister when he made the announcement as to when the project would be undertaken other than that it would be the next major provincial government building project in this area. The government is presently constructing a four-story office building just south of the proposed courthouse, land registry, museum and art gallery site.

The announcement was made to a gathering at the Arts Centre, 823 Broughton Street, while Mr. Straith formally opened a special exhibit held in conjunction with Arts Week in Victoria.

"We hope to have increased facilities for the museum and also for an art gallery of which we can be proud for the capital of this province," said Mr. Straith.

He indicated, however, that the government's first responsibility was to provide accommodation for its own fast-growing civil service.

He urged that the nucleus of an art group be maintained in the city until the new gallery is ready for occupancy.

Canadians Wealthier Now Than Ever, Statistics Show

OTTAWA (CP)—If wealth is a criterion of happiness, then Canadians should be happier than at any time in history.

They earned $11,833,000,000 last year—more money than ever before, including the free-spending days of the Second World War.

As computed by the Bureau of Statistics, the personal incomes were particularly high in Ontario.

In this industrial province, earnings last year amounted to $4,619,000,000. This was interpreted by the statisticians in the annual summary of incomes and expenditures as being an average of $1,075 per each person in the province.

It compared with the per-capita earnings of $1,024 by British Columbia, $950 by the prairies, $784 by Quebec and $653 by the Maritimes.

Ontario had the highest income, but this did not necessarily mean that the province was enjoying the highest standard of living.

Prices fluctuated between provinces. Because demand was high and people had the means to pay, prices may be higher in Ontario than in other areas.

The statisticians also were quick to point out that direct comparisons between highly industrial areas and predominantly rural parts are misleading.

Ontario increased personal income from $1,536,000,000 to $4,619,000,000; Manitoba, $286,000,000 to $716,000,000; Saskatchewan, $385,000,000 to $796,000,000; Alberta, $296,000,000 to $844,000,000; British Columbia, $338,000,000 to $1,132,000,000.

The Dominion, taken as a whole, climbed from $4,023,000,000 in 1926 to $11,833,000,000.

Sense Of Humor Of Scots Debated

The Scotsman's sense of humor was up for discussion at a meeting of the Burns Club, Tuesday night, when more than 120 Scots heard Dr. Henrietta Anderson discourse on the question "Has a Scotsman a Sense of Humor?"

Dr. Anderson gave readings from Dean Ramsay and other Scottish writers and cited the difficulty of translating the Scottish dialect into other languages.

She said this difficulty was the main reason why other people could not understand a Scotsman's jokes. The 120 Scots present nodded in agreement.

Contributing to the evening's entertainment were Bob Sharp, James Matheson and Mrs. M. Shepherd, Vocalists; Fred All-nutt, piper. Harry Wood gave the opening poem "Burns' Address to Edinburgh." Edward Whyte gave the vote of thanks to Dr. Anderson.

Fail In Attempt To Break Open Safe

The city detective office believes that the unsuccessful attempt to break open the safe in the Menzies Street Sawmills store during the night to be the work of amateurs.

Constables Harry Hoshall and A. Wells reported at 1:50 this morning the store had been broken into. Detectives and police attending found the dial had been knocked off the safe with the use of a sledge hammer and a pair of pliers.

Entry was gained from a small door and by forcing the floor boards. Store officials were called to secure the premises.

Says East Germany Formed To Avert Threats Of War

BERLIN (UP) — Communist Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl said today that Russia virtually was forced by "the serious threat of war in Europe" to form the new east German government.

Unification of Germany was more urgent than ever, Grotewohl told a joint session of both houses of the new East German legislature in his maiden speech as Prime Minister.

Grotewohl delivered a major statement of policy for the new East German government in an hour-long speech in which he said the new state would:

1. Pay Russia war-damage reparations and "overcome the national misery created by war."
2. Welcome with open arms all non-criminal Nazis.
3. Embark immediately upon a new Soviet-engineered two-year plan.
4. Provide an abundance of food for its people.
5. Remain staunchly loyal to the Soviet Union.
6. Fight for unification of Germany against the West German State, which Grotewohl denounced as an "imperialist" puppet government "founded in London."

Escaped Convict Shot To Death By Montreal Officer

MONTREAL (CP) — A 19-year-old escaped convict was shot and killed by an off-duty constable early today as he and two other escaped prisoners were trying to break into a private home in the north-east section of this city.

Police identified the dead youth as Jean Charles Labrosse. He was shot by Constable Emile Votro, 36, who was on his way home when he noticed the trio trying to enter a Berri Street home.

Labrosse's companions, Roger Ouellette, 21, and Gaston Mercier, 18, were arrested and are being held in police cells here pending their return to the St. Jerome, Que., jail from which they escaped shortly before midnight.

The youth was killed as he attempted to frighten the officer with a piece of metal in his hand. Votro whipped out his own service revolver and fired one bullet into the convict's face.

Labrosse died instantly.

Spectacular Fire At Port Alberni

PORT ALBERNI — A spectacular fire totally destroyed a large building at Glenwood area. Flames broke through an empty former army barracks about 5.20 and raged for one hour before volunteer brigades from Glenwood and Port Alberni subdued the fire.

The building was owned by the Alberni District Fair board and was to have been moved at a later date. No supplies other than windows were stored there at the time of the fire.

Flames from the burning structure were visible for miles and a huge crowd gathered to watch volunteer firemen battle the blaze.

The Newfoundland Club will meet at the Hard of Hearing Hall Oct. 18 at 8.15.

Don Manuel, 1169 Yates Street, reported to city police late Tuesday night that he heard the noise of breaking glass and on going behind the Far West Motors Ltd. premises saw two men running away, heading west on View Street. Police called checked the premises and found them secure.

Chest Campaign Hits $49,000 Mark

Contributions to the current Greater Victoria Community Chest campaign hit the $49,000 mark today. Eric Wainwright, campaign director, announced at noon today following a count by auditors at chest headquarters.

The figure is $1,000 off the one-third mark, the objective being $150,000.

The campaign is now a week and a half old. It has only another week and a half to go. Mr. Wainwright said he expected returns during the next few days to show a considerable increase over previous days. So far, he pointed out, main portion of the total has come from residential canvassers. Business and industrial divisions have, as yet, not reported their initial returns.

Say Rich Uranium Yield From Ore

KELOWNA (CP) — Officials of the Yellowknife Volcanic Gold Mine, claimed here today that preliminary samples of uranium-bearing ore sent to Ottawa show a uranium content higher than that of the Eldorado Mine at Great Bear Lake, Northwest Territories.

They claimed the ore sent to Ottawa for assay contained 1.52 per cent of uranium oxide. They said the Eldorado Mine—Canada's richest uranium producer—has ore containing 1 per cent uranium oxide.

Gandhi Assassin Appeal Rejected

LONDON (Reuter) — The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council today refused Nathuram Godse, sentenced to death for the murder of Mohandas K. Gandhi, permission to appeal against the judgment of the High Court of Simla.

The committee also dismissed petitions for leave to appeal from four men convicted of conspiracy to murder Gandhi—Marayan D. Apte, Vishnu R. Karkare, Madan Lal K. Pahwa and Gopal V. Godse.

The judgment of the High Court of Simla June 21, against which the five men wished to appeal, had affirmed their conviction by a special judge at Delhi. Nathuram Godse and Apte have been sentenced to death.

U.S. Red Trial Closing

NEW YORK (UP) — The Communist conspiracy trial jury was hearing final charges and counter-charges by the defence and prosecution today, and the nine-month-old case was expected to be in the hands of the jurors by tomorrow.

Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the Communist Party, finished his plea for acquittal of himself and other members of the party's 11-man "national board" accused of plotting to teach and advocate the overthrow of the government by force.

After Dennis, the actual head of the American Communists since the illness of party chairman William Z. Foster, finished for the Communist defendants, U.S. attorney John F. X. McGehey started the government's summation.

McGehey was expected to complete his summary this afternoon or tomorrow morning, after which federal Judge Harold R. Medina will make his final charge and send the jurors out to decide the guilt or innocence of the U.S. Communist "politburo."

166TH DAY

Today was the 166th trial day of the case, which began last Jan. 17.

The 44-year-old Dennis, who acted as his own attorney began winding up the Communist defence Tuesday by labeling the long trial as a "miserable" example of "thought" control and "police state methods."

He said conviction of the Communist leaders would bring persecution of every party member in the nation.

Vancouver Living Cost Canada's Second High

OTTAWA (CP) — Following the general cost-of-living index, living cost indexes decreased during August for each of eight regional cities on which the Bureau of Statistics keeps a separate check.

Lower prices for foods, particularly fresh vegetables, meats and fruits were mainly responsible, and eggs also were cheaper at most centres.

Rentals rose fractionally, price changes for clothing were mixed and fuel costs at Montreal and Saskatoon were higher, although unchanged at other cities.

Composite city index decreases between Aug. 1 and Sept. 1 showed the index rose 1.6 points at Halifax; Edmonton, 1.5; Winnipeg, 1.3; Saskatoon, 1.0; Vancouver, 0.7; Montreal, 0.4; Saint John, N.B., 0.3, and Toronto, 0.3. The city indexes show the extent of the rise or fall in the cost of living as between cities. However, they do not compare the actual level of living costs.

Calculated on the base, August 1939 equals 100, the indexes combined to place the index for the whole Dominion at 161.0 on Sept. 1, compared with 161.5 Aug. 1 and 157.6 on Sept. 1, 1948.

The bureau's general index is computed on the base 1935-39 equals 100. On this base the index rose a half point during August to 162.3.

Following are the latest city and Dominion indexes on the August, 1949, base:

	Aug. 1, '49	Sept. 1, '49
Halifax	157.2	155.6
Saint John	159.8	159.4
Montreal	166.1	165.7

Winnipeg	157.9	156.6

Gen. Pearkes Urges Atom Bomb Used As Bargaining Counter

OTTAWA (BUP) — A suggestion that the western democracies use the atom bomb as a bargaining counter in an effort to maintain world peace was voiced today by a Canadian soldier-politician.

He is Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, who won the Victoria Cross in the First World War, commanded the First Canadian Division in the second, and now sits as Progressive Conservative Member of Parliament for Nanaimo.

"Now that Russia has the atomic bomb, it looks as if there is going to be an armaments race between her and the western powers," Gen. Pearkes told the British United Press. "This means that time is running out on our efforts to keep world peace."

"The atomic bomb will not win wars by itself, any more than any other weapon. I do not of course under-rate its importance, but I have no doubt counter-measures against it will be devised."

"At present, the United States has a substantial lead in the field of atomic armament, but sooner or later Russia will catch up. The danger point will come when Russia thinks she has as many bombs as the United States and feels she could try a test of strength."

"Therefore, I feel that we—Canada, the United States, Britain and the western powers generally—should try to use the atomic bomb as a bargaining counter in an effort to bring about a limitation of armaments and so ensure world peace."

Vote May End Work In Woods

VANCOUVER (BUP) — Three hundred lumber inspectors who could tie up most of British Columbia's multi-million dollar lumber industry were expected to have voted in favor of strike action in a government-supervised strike-ballot held last week.

Results of the vote by the Lumber Inspectors' Union (C.C.L.) will be announced Friday by Dan Radford, Canadian Congress of Labor organizer at Vancouver. C.C.L. official Bert Gargrave said in Vancouver he expected the inspectors, who are scattered along the coastline from this district to Prince Rupert, voted for strike action to back up their demands for 25 cents an hour pay boost, six statutory holidays and union security. Inspectors now earn a basic rate of $1.47 an hour.

A walk-out by the 300 lumber inspectors would tie up most of the B.C. lumber industry, and International Woodworkers of America, Local 1, in British Columbia has stated it would support them. I.W.A. Local 1 President Stewart Alsbury said his union members would not handle any lumber normally classified by the inspectors in the event of a strike.

AN EARLY ELECTION?

REPORTS FROM GREAT BRITAIN SUGgest that Mr. Attlee will ask His Majesty to dissolve Parliament in time to bring on a general election some time next month. While nobody in authority in London has based this prediction on the government's apprehension in respect of the next appeal to the people, it follows that the Prime Minister's advisers are carefully weighing the prospects of victory now and the doubtful results of a ballot in, for example, the early or late spring of 1950.

It is not surprising that the Conservative opposition in the lower house of the Mother of Parliaments is scouting the political highways and byways to try to erect a platform whose main planks will be understood by the British electorate. Obviously, this is the business of the people of the United Kingdom, and it will scarcely become outsiders to suggest how the enfranchised people of Great Britain should cast their ballots. As far as Canada is concerned, of course, the people of this Dominion naturally hope that the next appeal to the electorate of the United Kingdom will result in the election of an administration clothed with sufficient authority—meaning a substantial majority in the House of Commons—to initiate domestic policies calculated to fit into a world program of multilateral trade. Even Mr. Churchill, the leader of the Conservative opposition in the House of Commons, knows full well that any government at Westminster from now on must be prepared to play its part in the further development of that principle of free trade to which the great wartime leader of Great Britain subscribed so wholeheartedly when he and Mr. Lloyd George evolved the original social security plans in 1910 and 1911.

Admittedly, the Socialist administration headed by Mr. Attlee has not lost a single by-election during the four and a half years it has held office. This is an unprecedented record in British political history; but the Prime Minister himself will readily understand that the policies put into effect by the administration over which he presides have caused a good deal of apprehension among the people of Britain themselves and,
by another token, among the peoples of the Commonwealth who may or may not like the label which Mr. Attlee has nailed to his political masthead. While few tears need be shed over certain criticisms levelled at the Socialist government at Westminster by some elements in the Congress at Washington, it is nevertheless good business for official Westminster and the people of the United Kingdom to realize the necessity of fostering still more amicable relations with the United States.

Though much of the foregoing may not have any direct relationship to the rumors of a general election in the United Kingdom before the Attlee administration has run out its constitutional term, it can be said without equivocation that all the English-speaking peoples of the world, plus those of other lands, will watch with great interest the next battle of the ballots in Great Britain.

NEW HAND AT THE THROTTLE

OUR CITIZENS NEED NO INTRODUction to Mr. Donald Gordon, C.M.G., the 47-year-old Canadian Scot named to succeed
Mr. R. C. Vaughan, C.M.G., as chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways. During wartime the new C.N.R. head handled price control so efficiently that this Dominion's fight against inflation during that period became an example for the United States. Mr. Gordon made sound decisions. His refusal to temporize kept the country on an even keel at a time when all the ingredients were present for the emergence of financial chaos.

It will have occasioned some surprise to the public, however, to find the top office in the nationally-owned line bestowed upon a man without railroad background. Particularly is the change in policy noticeable in view of the history of his predecessor, Mr. Vaughan, a railroad man among railroad men, who now is accorded a well-merited rest from exacting labors.

The reputation attained by Mr. Gordon will stand him in good stead in his new post. His financial experience, increased in later years as acting deputy governor of the Bank of Canada, will not be forgotten in the job before him. As he assumes the task of keeping the wheels rolling, he will have behind him a firm grasp on those economic principles requisite to the direction of an enterprise as important to the people of Canada as the C.N.R.

SELF SERVICE

IT HAS BEEN USUAL IN THESE POSTwar days to hail Edmonton as an up-and-coming community, filled with pioneer spirit and the enthusiasm of a large city that knows itself to be on the fringes of the "last frontier"—the great undeveloped north country. One would expect, therefore, to find among the citizens of the Alberta capital an initiative and enterprise in keeping with that provocative environment—a reflection of the spirit that animated our forebears as they conquered the vast reaches of this half-continent. But there should be a limit.

The news columns bring us an account of a resident of Edmonton who, filled with the feelings and sentiments which we have described, carried his pioneering spirit to the point of making his own automobile license plates. Brought before a magistrate, he explained that the old ones had become lost, so he manufactured duplicates from a piece of steel.

We hope he has not been completely discouraged by the sentence of "five dollars or five days" which followed. Something will have gone from this young and energetic country when a motorist must turn helplessly to a provincial government office to replace an article which any handy man should be able to produce for himself. And there still remain open for personal effort other attractive commodities such as paper and metal currency, dog licenses, birth certificates, bus tickets and drivers' licenses.
But the essence of individual initiative might perhaps be better preserved by the exercise of legal activities. The wild west is no more.

OUT OF THE FRYING PAN . . .

THE SOCIALIST-PROPOSED AND COMmunist-backed demands for general wage increases throughout French industry, which led to the resignation of Premier Henri Queuille last week, will not have proved a helpful tactic for the Moscow party-liners if the government leader's successor is to be M. Jules Moch. M. Moch, who has been asked to form an administration, is well known to the Communists.
A Socialist, he has served in the last three governments as Minister of the Interior, in which position he has preserved an unyielding opposition to the Kremlin and all its followers.

It was he who succeeded in breaking the great French strikes of 1947 and 1948—walkouts which, engineered by the Communists, almost threw the country's industry into chaos, and severely handicapped the national effort to recover from war losses.
If, therefore, the Communists sought political advantage by enlarging the split in the middle-of-the-road government of M.
Queuille, they have now given power to an even more persistent enemy. The course of the new Cabinet, if the new leader's formative efforts prove successful, will be watched with interest.

DESERVES A BETTER FATE

MOST NEWSPAPER READERS WILL have become fairly familiar with the troubles of one Mr. Garry Davis, who some time ago voluntarily gave up his United States citizenship to become what he termed a "world citizen." Basically, he showed a high idealism in his project. The idea apparently was that if the peoples of the world could be persuaded to renounce nationalism a major step would have been taken toward the removal of international frictions and their resultant eruption in periodic warfare. Unfortunately, the ex-American seems to be many years ahead of his time, or many generations after it.
Although he has attracted a sizeable following in some countries, notably France, his doctrine has come upon the world at a time when peoples are more concerned about preserving their nationhood, than they are interested in abolishing it.

Mr. Davis has appeared in the news quite regularly since his initial announcement. Most recently he has been sentenced to a short jail term in France for residing there without a permit. Earlier he had been noted living on United Nations premises in Paris, and from time to time addressing rallies or avoiding scrapes with the French authorities.

It would be a pity if so humanitarian a venture were to end in such minor scuffles and vexations. After all, Mr. Davis is preaching nothing other than the brotherhood of man—a concept which for 2,000 years has been making progress, but which has not yet triumphed. He apparently will have to be content with something less than full success.

FOOD PROBLEM

THE RELUCTANCE OF HUMANS TO admit satisfaction with their lot has been noted in a variety of ways by philosophers and others. Sometimes such recalcitrance is quite understandable; in other circumstances it can only be explained in terms of human perversity and the vagaries of temperament. In the latter category must fall the situation revealed in a dispatch from Berlin which tells of the problems now confronting the women of that much publicized city.

In the war and early post-war years the ladies gave many a worried thought to the effects on their figures occasioned by restricted rations and lack of many necessary dietary items. Shoulder bones and ribs that began to emerge as the envelope of healthy flesh diminished were causes of worry, even though beauty problems soon tended to be overlooked in the struggle merely to keep alive. The later Russian blockade of the western section of Berlin re-emphasized a condition that had been improving. With its removal, however, food began to flow into the city in increasing amounts, replacing dehydrated emergency fare with a normal diet.

But a news item relates that the initial delight over comparatively bountiful supplies of food has given way, among the women, to a new concern. The ladies are worried about their weight. Automatic scales have doubled their receipts in the last few months, it is reported. Newspapers and magazines are blossoming with advertisements for weight-reducing medications, and there is a general feminine inclination to return to less sumptuous meals and eschew fats and carbohydrates. Truly, there is no satisfying the gods of fashion—nor those who serve them.

Written in Paris

THE KEY TO THE DOOR

BEFORE LEAVING WASHINGTON at the end of September, I looked into a number of things it seemed useful to make inquiries about in Europe. One of them was the complicated subject of the third appropriation of the Marshall Plan. Though the United States Congress will not begin to consider it until early winter, the Administration will be making decisions of policy and formulating its plans this autumn. It is evident that the third year will be difficult. For it took Congress from February to September to agree to the second year of Marshall aid, and all observers I have talked with feel that opinion in Congress and in the country is less confident now about the future of the undertaking than it was before the sterling crisis developed.

INDEED, a high American official who has had a leading part from the beginning of the whole experiment told me that he did not think the Administration could obtain a full third appropriation in 1950 unless before the votes were taken in Congress there had been some kind of impressive and substantial progress in Europe toward that mutual aid which has always been promised but had never been realized. He felt, no doubt rightly, that the prospect of voting money for sixteen separate subsidies for sixteen separate countries would not satisfy Congress when it meets next year.

Here in Paris I have found, after talking with a few Europeans who have lived with the problem and understand it, that there is no belief among the people generally and little even among responsible officials that the United States is very serious about mutual aid in Europe.

THE WORKING ASSUMPTION is that America's relationship to Europe will be one of two very simple alternatives:

Either the United States will subsidize indefinitely and unconditionally any government that is anti-Communist, or she will withdraw from Europe into isolationism.
The idea that the American government and people have more than a platonic interest in the reorganization and reconstruction of Europe has not yet been taken seriously.
It is an idea that every one feels he must make phrases and gestures about. But it is not an idea that shapes the policies of governments or determines their decisions.

And so, though in one sense American power in Europe is enormously great, indeed unpleasantly great, American influence for constructive European action is remarkably small. The conviction has formed that while Europe cannot live without American subsidies, the United States, because of the Communist danger, could not withdraw subsidies. Thus, Marshall aid, which was to provide the inducement and the means to closer European collaboration, exerts little effective pressure to bring about European collaboration.

RECENT EVENTS in Washington during the Anglo-American talks have accentuated the feeling that the United States does not have clear or firm views on the need for European mutual aid. In fact, the views first publicly attributed to Mr. Kennan by the Alsop brothers and supported by confidential reports, that the United States has agreed to some sort of British separation from the Continent, are now, perhaps mistakenly, regarded as real American policy—confirmed by the action of Bevin and Cripps.
If this impression is not corrected, the idea of European mutual aid and unification will have been fatally injured.

FOR THE FRENCH, and I have no doubt the European, view is that without an intimate Anglo-French understanding as its foundation, nothing can be done toward the solution of any great European problem.
The Germans are recovering their power at a prodigious rate, and a satisfactory equilibrium in Europe is impossible unless the British and the French are able to work jointly toward an understanding with Germany. Separately, France and Great Britain will not be strong enough to deal with the coming Germany as equals. Unless they can unite with confidence and in intimacy, their separate relations with Germany will be competitive and disruptive.

BUT BRITAIN and France are not likely to work out a partnership unless the United States encourages, induces it and presses for it. This is in fact the key to the door of that mutual aid which is, with self-help, the object of the Marshall Plan.
The United States came very near to throwing away the key during the critical weeks of the month of September.

Nice Little Game They're Playing

As Our Readers See It

GASOLINE PRICES

Here are two simple questions with regard to the proposed further increase in gasoline prices which are under consideration on account of the alleged low price of fuel oil and the devaluation of the dollar:

1. If, say, butter or cheese were undervalued, would that be a sound reason for increasing the price of milk?

2. A few years ago, when the Canadian dollar was at a discount and was then pegged at par with the U.S. dollar, did we hear anything about reducing the price of gasoline? I think not!
Further, gasoline at present still carries a war emergency tax.
It would appear that, as far as our government is concerned, the war has not yet terminated, and that applies to many other things, which is one cause of continued high prices.

Perhaps someone can enlighten the consumer on these points.

FREE THOUGHT

To Mr. R. C. Keane I would say: Yes, I claim the right to free thought, free speech and freedom of the press, as basic human rights, for myself, for the courageous Mr. Linn A. Gale, and for all my fellow men of whatever race, color, creed or philosophy of life.

I heartily second Mr. Pepper's letter and welcome Mr. Gale as a Canadian citizen. To me his honest and sincere convictions ring true. I maintain that no man has the right to set limits to human thought.

Because I wish to keep an open mind, entirely free from prejudice, or science, religion and philosophy, I correspond with and subscribe to: The Literary Guide and Rationalist Review (8 Johnson's Court, Fleet Street, London E.C. 4), The Humanist (569 South 13th East Street, Salt Lake City, Utah, U.S.A.), and The Rationalist (Box 7387 G.P.O., Melbourne, Australia).

The first-named has just completed 50 years of continuous publication. They are all serious journals with really good reviews of new books of importance. They are free thought and reject the supernatural. I may not agree with all the views expressed, but I find their outlook fresh and thought-provoking.

I thank the Victoria Daily Times especially for allowing correspondents the usual privilege of using nom-de-plumes. I would certainly much prefer to sign my own name, but in the case of free thought, I am sorry to say it has been my sad experience that a great many people do not hesitate to invoke both social and economic sanctions against those of their fellows who dare express unorthodox ideas. Such is the frailty of human nature.

AGNOSTIC.

SAYS MR. PEPPER

In his reply to "Agnostic" who claimed the right of free thought,
Mr. R. A. Keane, in your issue of Oct. 8, has this to say: "To be justified in a flat and categorical denial of the existence of a deity, we must be furnished with a full knowledge of the universe wholly and in detail"— which might be construed as saying that belief in a deity, any deity, involves for such believer
a full knowledge of the character, the origin, history and place of residence of the deity believed in.
This knowledge we can be sure all those millions who believe in Buddha, Mohammed, Osiris, Isis, Christna, Mithra, Shinto, Confucius, the Virgin Mary, and the Jewish Jehovah most certainly do not have.

In fact we know that not one individual among all those thousand millions of believers in any of these various gods is in possession of a single scrap of personal knowledge concerning any one of them. Why then is the person who does not believe in any one of them expected to have full knowledge of the universe in whole and in detail? No believer knows a single detail concerning the deity in which he believes. And we well know, the 350 million believers in Buddha, but who do not believe in the Jewish Jehovah, are not too well informed concerning the universe and know little about its various parts.

Perhaps Mr. Keane will be good enough to make it clear why a non-believer in any deity must know everything, while the non-believer is content to know nothing? Just why should he get by with mere belief while the thinker is expected to know everything?

GETS NOWHERE

In reply to Mr. Baker's query.
The word Trinity cannot be found in the Bible. The Dogma can, however, besides many indirect references to it. There are the more specific ones as, Gospel of St. Matt. xxviii. 19. In second Epistle of St. Paul to the Corinthians, xiii. 14 (verse 13 in the Douay Bible) and in the first Epistle of St. John chap. five, verse seven, "For there are three that bear witness in heaven, the Father, the Word and the Holy Ghost; and these three are one."
Trinity as defined in the common dictionary is O. French from Latin trinitas . . . (tres) . . .

meaning three.

Contrary to the idea that the dogma was taught after the Bible was written, the dogma of the Trinity was taught by the Church before the New Testament was compiled (of the Gospels, Epistles and Acts) and with the Old Testament made into the Bible as we now know it.

The Bible is a wee bit younger than the teaching and Church of Christ.

'CHRISTIAN' COUNSEL?

Mrs. Marshall's good letter in the Times about the current bus fuss had only one weakness.
It was where she says a good Christian lawyer is needed to take up the bus users' cause.
What is needed is a lawyer with a good solid reputation for honesty. It's so fatally easy to be a "Christian."

No doubt the City Council will grant a tag day to raise money to pay for an honest legal thrashing out of bus users' grievances.

PEAK LOADS
Peak loads and temperamental bus maintenance call to mind an experience with a motorman whom we shall call Charlie. It was in the days of the street railway, during the war and many things in short supply.
Even space at times.

This particular evening, Charlie had his usual chore of requesting passengers to move to the rear.
The skipper was showing monumental patience but had a twinkle in his eye . . . and finally exclaimed, "Move along folks, move along. Both ends get there at the same time." He's been kidded ever since but his widely appreciated sense of humor made the whole car kin.

When you come to think of it,
Charlie was right. There's a rear door on buses, too!
This one is on myself. Some few years ago, a friend and I were sitting conversing comfortably on a No. 6 car. All seats taken.

The car stopped to let two ladies get on. My friend noticed this and knowing me to be pardonably big, turned and said,
"Alan get up and let these two ladies sit down."

I got up!

Nine Good Suitcases

NEA Service

THE day that President Truman announced that the Russians had an atomic bomb, the following story slipped out of the army's intelligence office.

Members of the Russian general staff were discussing the best way to deliver A-bombs to the U.S. in case of war, in one crippling blow. The general in charge of guided missiles said:

"We should put nine bombs
in the 'warheads' of nine good, long-range missiles and point them at the nine strategic centres of the U.S. and fire away."

Next, the Russian general in charge of fifth-column activity spoke up. He said that the Russian bombers weren't reliable enough and offered the suggestion that nine good agents be given nine good atomic bombs in nine good suitcases to be planted at the nine targets.

But the Russian in charge of civilian components said:

"That's impossible, too. Where would we get nine good suitcases?"

GLOBAL SURVEY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

LONDON'S policemen, who ordinarily are unarmed except for truncheons, have told a Royal Commission that the hanging penalty for murder should be retained. They feel that this is their best protection from desperate criminals.

The commission is studying the question of whether the laws on capital punishment should be changed, and of course the bob-bies' viewpoint is understandable.
The only time they carry firearms is on the rare occasions when they are confronted with a desperate situation, and then guns are served out to them, to be returned to headquarters as soon as the emergency is over.

However, let not the untutored think that those truncheons are harmless. The bobby can throw it with all the accuracy of the Australian aborigine hurling a boomerang, and many a fleeing badman is brought down in this manner.

Of course, the English policeman's best protection is the disposition of the public as a whole to respect the "law" as represented by the bluecoat. Bob-bies don't have to go up against gunmen, as do American police, and it's rarely that a burglar or any other denizen of the night carries a gun, even for protection.

The English laws about the use of firearms are fierce. For example, if you as a householder catch a burglar in your home, you may not shoot him unless you believe he is about to do you or a member of your family bodily injury. The mere fact that the thief may be climbing out of the window with the family silver doesn't give you the right to shoot. If you do use a gun under those circumstances and kill somebody, it is murder.

I knew a chap in London who had served a long prison sentence as the most notorious burglar England ever had produced. I wrote a book with him about the London underworld, and we used to have terrific arguments over the rights of the unarmed burglar. My man maintained that it wasn't sporting for a householder to shoot an unarmed intruder—something like potting a sitting bird, what?

CLIPPED AT RANDOM

TRAGIC FATALISM

Ottawa Journal
It was Lord Grey, we think, who wrote during World War I that conflict with Germany might have been averted had the mind of Europe not been paralyzed by some awful fatalism.
There are signs of the same sort of fatalism now; a disposition to ask: "What more can be done?"
And the frightening thing is that fatalism now could bring vastly more tragic consequences than it did in 1915.

NATIONAL UNITY

Montreal Star
Only experienced librarians can tell us all the benefits that would flow from the establishment of a national library but it does not take much imagination on the part of anyone to realize we ought to have one. Adequate library facilities are a prerequisite to intelligent understanding of most things and a national library, contributing to national understanding, would be an immediate force in the creation of a stronger and stronger sense of unity.

MARKET BALANCING

Windsor Star
Following the Abbott austerity program, increased prices of staple vegetables put a heavy strain on Canadian pocketbooks.
A return to free competition at this season of the year should result in savings to the individual consumer.

While the now-famous 90-cent
Canadian dollar will make Canadian rates higher than those in effect across the border, there is little possibility that exorbitant prices will be reached this winter.

GIVE AND TAKE

Winnipeg Free Press Farmers may not like the government telling them what and how much they may plant, but, if they insist on a guaranteed price, it seems inevitable that they will have to submit to this kind of control. Nor is there the slightest reason to believe that lower output by reason of such controls will reduce the world surplus. Other countries, which do not impose such controls, may well increase their output and thus achieve an increased share of the world's wheat trade.

Expect Adoption City Manager Plan At Next Council Meeting

The only difference between the city manager form of government and the new plan of administration proposed for Victoria and submitted to City Council Tuesday by the Stevenson and Kellogg business engineering company is in legal basis.

This was made clear to members of the council during the recommendation following a regular meeting Tuesday afternoon.

The plan was recommended to the council during a committee of the whole session in the morning when aldermen tabled the matter until the afternoon meeting had concluded.

AVOR PLAN

In the full discussion period it was indicated that the majority of not all of the members of the council, thought the plan of employing a "director of administration" to run the city's business was needed.

It was pointed out by officials of the Stevenson and Kellogg company which conducted a survey of the administration in August and September that the city manager form of government was provided for in the charter of a city.

But the form of government they proposed could be adopted by the Municipal Council without having to take the question to the people or to have it embodied in a charter under which the city might be operating.

(Victoria does not have a charter but is governed in administration by the Municipality Act. Vancouver operates under a private charter.)

The two senior members of the council, Mayor Percy George and Ald. Ed Williams both spoke in favor of the plan.

At one point in the discussion Mayor George said: "I am wholeheartedly behind this."

He thought the 65-page report of the business experts should be studied before action was taken, and the understanding was that it would be considered at the next meeting of the council in two weeks.

It was forecast that the plan of the engineers would be adopted in principle and that a search would be started immediately for "the right man" to fill the position of director of administration or city manager.

ONE OBJECTION

Ald. Williams said he was "all for the plan" with the exception of a recommendation it contained that the building department be embodied in the public works department.

He was willing, though, to leave this phase to the discretion of the director.

Ald. M. Aubrey Kent was another strong supporter of the recommendation. One thing worrying him though was that in adopting the new form of government without having it laid down in a private charter, future councils could throw it out before it could be proven. Other council members thought he was worrying needlessly. If the system was right future councils would accept it. The continuity of the plan would be maintained.

Mayor George remarked that councils in the past had never fired department heads and this was indicative of the treatment a city manager would receive.

THAT'S THE TROUBLE?

Ald. Waldo Skillings suggested that the policy of the council of not dismissing department heads might be the reason the city was looking for a new system of administration.

Ald. Williams closed this part of the discussion with the observation that majority rule was the democratic rule and the council should not be bothered with what future councils might do.

"We govern as we see fit. Other councils will too," he said.

Biggest problem facing the council, it was realized, would be the appointment of a director of administration—finding the man for the job.

The success of the plan hinged on him, said N. O. Paquette, chief engineer of the company of business analysis, and if he was the right man his pay would be high.

HIGH SALARY

Mr. Paquette thought a minimum salary would be $12,000 to $15,000 a year.

"You may have to pay more," he said.

Mr. Paquette said in answer to a question from Ald. Harold M. Diggon that the structural design of the present City Hall was not good for general administration, but he thought changes could be made to help.

In answer to Ald. Skillings, the chief engineer said that if the plan was adopted he would recommend that the city employ his firm to help implement it. The city would save money in the long run even though the work might cost from $20,000 to $40,000 and take 18 months to fulfill.

Ask Extra Signs Primary Schools

Extra safety precautions in the vicinity of primary schools were recommended by the City Council Tuesday by the Kiwanis Club junior traffic safety patrol committee.

In a brief read by M. V. Chesnut, vice-chairman of the committee, it was asked that special warning signs be erected for the primary schools which would read: "Extreme Caution—Primary School."

The Kiwanis Club, it was pointed out, was unable to operate traffic patrols at such schools as Spring Ridge, Quadra Primary and Bank Street because the pupils were not old enough.

The extra signs would help take the place of patrols, though. It was requested also that the painting of crosswalks in the primary school zones be given top priority.

May Hold Property Adjacent To Arena For New City Hall

The city may hold Quadra Street property east of the Memorial Arena as a site for a new City Hall.

This was learned at Tuesday's City Council meeting from Ald. Ed Williams, chairman of a special committee studying the question of a new quarters for city administration.

Ald. Williams opposed a move by Ald. Waldo Skillings that action be taken at once on the holding of a plebiscite to determine if the citizens favored allowing erection of a curling rink on the property.

Ald. Williams said his committee was working with a group of curlers desiring to build a rink near the arena, and he thought the question should be negotiated further.

"We're working on it," he told Ald. Skillings, and council supported him in his request that the plebiscite question be tabled.

Bear Vs. Wrestler S.P.C.A. Complaint

S.P.C.A. requests that plans of a Victoria promoter to pit a black bear against a professional wrestler in a Memorial Arena show be blocked, was laid in the lap of the Memorial Arena Commission.

Ald. Harold M. Diggon was quick to refer the matter to the commission stating that body how as attending to the administration of the rink.

Ald. Frank Mulliner, a patron of the S.P.C.A., thought council was being flippant in its action.

"I enjoy going to a wrestling show, if you can call it that," said the alderman, "but I'm not so sure this kind of an exhibition (bear vs. wrestler) is proper."

New City Lighting Plans Described

Plans to replace Victoria's cluster lights with mercury vapor luminaires were described to the Vancouver Island branch of the Illuminating Engineering Society Tuesday night by Kenneth Reid, city lighting superintendent.

Mr. Reid said the cluster lights were doomed to extinction; that four of the mercury lights had been installed at the Yates and Douglas intersection, and that the whole of 700 block of Yates Street would be lighted with the new fixtures next year.

He thought all cluster lights could be replaced in seven or eight years at an annual cost of about $10,000.

Carnival Proceeds Go To Orphanage

The Victoria Lions Club annual Fall Carnival gets under way Friday of this week and will continue Saturday.

All proceeds from this event will be donated to the Protestant Orphanage. The Lions Club in Victoria is noted for its charitable activities among needy children having a long list of notable donations to its credit. In the fight against infantile paralysis, the Jubilee Hospital boasts a plastic lung, furnished by Victoria Lions Club.

The Lions Clubs throughout B.C. maintain a trust fund available to any needy crippled child.

Criticizes Choice Of Gordon To Head C.N.R.

OTTAWA (CP)—Appointment of a man without railway experience as head of the Canadian National Railways was described Tuesday night in the Commons as a "shameful violation" of the principle of promotion within an organization.

Donald Fleming (P.C.—Toronto-Eglinton) criticized the appointment announced Tuesday afternoon, of Donald Gordon, deputy governor of the Bank of Canada, as chairman and president of the C.N.R.

While declaring he was speaking only for himself and did not want to reflect in any way on Mr. Gordon, Mr. Fleming hit at "government interference" in the railway management and declared the move would affect railway employees' morale.

He accused the government of reserving top job "plums" for itself and taking them away from employees.

No member of the government replied to the attack.

To Allow Tagging

Esquimalt Council at its meeting Tuesday night granted permission to the 1949 Remembrance Day committee to tag in the municipality on Poppy Day, Nov. 5.

City Council Divided Over Second Radio Station Move

City Council on Tuesday reaffirmed its support of the application to the C.B.C. Board of Governors by David M. Armstrong for a license to operate a second radio station in Victoria.

The support was given despite vigorous objection by M. V. Chesnut, manager of the existing broadcasting station.

The council heard briefs from both Mr. Chesnut and Mr. Armstrong, then voted on a motion of Ald. Ed Williams that the move for a second station be supported again.

His proposed station would have 250 watts of power.

City To Take Over Fishermen's Floats; To Employ Caretaker

The city soon will take over the administration of the Erie Street fishermen's floats it was announced Tuesday when City Council instructed its solicitor to draw up an agreement with the federal government which built the landings.

Council also authorized its civic service department to seek applications for the employment of a caretaker for the floats.

Ald. Charles F. Banfield, head of council's harbor committee, said building of an office and sanitation facilities for the wharves was being undertaken by the federal government, and electric light and water services would be provided the fishermen at prevailing rates.

He said that under rates suggested by Ottawa authorities for wharfage the city might collect from $350 to $400 a month from the fishermen during the winter tie-up season.

SUGGESTED RATES

Suggested rates were: For boats less than 25 feet, a 15 cents per foot charge for every

The motion passed six to four, Mayor Percy George, Ald. J. D. Hunter, Ald. Margaret Christie and Ald. Frank Mulliner dissenting.

Council supported a similar application of Mr. Armstrong earlier in the year which the C.B.C. governors turned down.

The former Victoria man, now an official with a New Westminster radio station, told council he felt optimistic that the governors would grant him a license this time.

His proposed station would have 250 watts of power.

Charge Favoritism In Cutting Trees, Brush Dallas Road

Ald. M. Aubrey Kent and Ald. Waldo Skillings made a last-ditch stand in City Council chambers Tuesday against what they termed bush clearing discrimination, but they lost.

Residents of two Dallas Road districts on opposite sides of Beacon Hill Park have been pressing council to remove brush and trees hiding their sea views which they claim also encourage immorality.

Ald. Ed Williams led a move to have every second tree in the west side area removed from Dallas Road, and brush cleared.

He was successful but not before Ald. Kent and Ald. Skillings scolded for giving one group of residents what they wanted and turning another down.

The two aldermen also thought the action was unfair to the city parks administrator who had said he had no funds to clear either section.

"But because one group is more high pressured you give in to them," said Ald. Kent.

Police Action Now On Smoke Nuisances

A Rock Bay shingle mill is erecting a new smoke stack in an effort to eliminate soot nuisance complaints City Council has been receiving from residents of the district.

This was reported to council Tuesday by fire wardens whose recommendation was adopted that complaints of smoke nuisances from other areas be referred in future to the police department.

The new shingle mill stack will have a heavy water spray clean the smoke before it goes skyward, it was stated.

The postponed general meeting of the C.P.R. Social and Athletic Club will be held Friday at 8 in the clubrooms, Belleville Street.

Esquimalt Legion To Be Given Guns

Esquimalt branch, Canadian Legion, is to be loaned the two guns and gun carriages which, until last November, graced Esquimalt Memorial Park.

Application for the guns was made to Esquimalt Council in a letter from A. H. C. Jones, branch secretary, who explained the Legion would set up the guns on its own property on Admirals Road to serve as a memorial to fallen comrades.

The guns were given to the municipality shortly after World War I by the federal government as war souvenirs. At the present time, the guns are in storage.

In his letter, Mr. Jones explained that if council would grant permission, the Legion branch would cast the wheels of the ancient field pieces in concrete blocks and would undertake to properly look after them.

Council members agreed to the request at their meeting Tuesday night.

Says Councils Should Work Closer With School Board

Suggestion that the municipal councils in Greater Victoria work a little closer with the Greater Victoria School Board was made Tuesday night by Councillor A. C. Wurtele at a meeting of the Esquimalt Council.

In a specially-prepared brief on school costs, Councillor Wurtele observed:

"There is no expenditure we make which is more worthwhile than that which is for the education of our children. Yet, curiously enough, there is no municipal expenditure over which we have less control."

He noted that municipal councils had the job of taxing the citizens but said when it came to the matter of school costs, all the councils had to do was meet the demands of the school board.

"And school costs these days seem to be mounting all the time," he said. "We seem to be paying as much for school costs as we do for providing all other essential municipal services."

PROVINCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

Councillor Wurtele thought the provincial government should really be responsible for the entire cost of education. He observed, however, that until such time as the government accepted its responsibility in this regard, it would remain the job of the individual councils to provide the necessary funds.

With regard to school costs in the Greater Victoria area, the councillor made three points:

1. That night school fees should be sufficient to cover the cost of operating the night school courses and that the general school fund not be tapped for this.

2. That cafeteria costs be sufficient to cover cost of supplies and allow for a slight profit, instead of having the cafeterias run at a loss.

3. That the school board not have to provide for transportation for students to and from school in this area as there is an adequate transportation system.

here to take care of students' travel needs.

"I fully realize these matters and, in fact, all school estimates are understood better by the school board than the various councils. Nevertheless, we are responsible for the proper expenditure of the peoples money collected by taxes, and we must see to it that every penny is wisely used."

"Might I suggest, therefore, that a letter be addressed to the councils of Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay suggesting that a representative from each meet with the school board in the near future to discuss school costs. Also, that similar action be taken again when school estimates are being prepared in 1950."

Fellow council members thought Councillor Wurtele's suggestion a good one, and authorized him to contact other municipal councils to determine their views on the subject.

Asks For By-laws To Keep Motorists
Out Of Bus Zones

Esquimalt Police Chief Gilbert Stancombe in a report to Municipal Council Tuesday night asked council to create a by-law which would make it a punishable offence for motorists to park in areas marked for bus stops.

He said at the present time, police could take no action against persons in the municipality wishing to park in spaces set aside for the loading and unloading of buses.

Council decided to take the matter up with the Greater Victoria Transportation Committee to see what is being done about this problem in other municipalities, before answering the chief's request.

Tax Collections

Esquimalt property tax collections during the first nine months of the year came close to the estimates, J. W. Allan, treasurer and collector, reported to the municipal council Tuesday night.

Of the current tax levy of $167,590, payments up to Sept. 30, amounted to $149,904.03, only $665.97 below the $150,570 estimate.

Of the taxes in arrears which amounted to $10,956.96, property owners paid off during the nine-month period $7,936.16, leaving a balance of $948.84 required to reach the $8,885 estimate.

Delinquent tax collections actually exceeded what had been estimated: Of the $1,756.58 delinquent taxes, $1,707.73 was paid off, $151.73 more than the anticipated $1,556.

To Allow Laundry

Esquimalt Council at its meeting Tuesday night gave its approval to rezoning of property at 1232 Esquimalt Road for use by Mrs. S. Humphrey, owner and operator of the Windsor Auto Court, as a laundry.

Council's action was taken following approval of the laundry proposal by the Esquimalt Town Planning Commission.

The commission referred back to council a request from Mrs. Doris Lessard to rezone property at 518 Gore Street to allow a confectionery store there. Commission asked for further information concerning the type and size of structure proposed.

Seek To Uniform Municipalities' Building By-laws

The Victoria branch of the Society of Residential Appraisers is currently preparing a brief to be submitted to all councils in the Greater Victoria area, asking for a uniform building by-law.

Word of this came before Esquimalt Council Tuesday night in a letter from J. N. Fraser, secretary of the local appraisers' branch.

A uniform building code in Victoria, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and Saanich has been needed for a long time, Mr. Fraser indicated. It is now time that something definite was done about it.

Council members expressed approval of the idea, but Council James Ellis wondered if this were intended as just another spoke in the wheel of amalgamation.

Reeve A. I. Thomas assured him it was not; that it was only intended as a convenience.

Esquimalt To Give $75 To Chest Drive

Esquimalt councillors voted unanimously at their meeting Tuesday night to give a $75 donation to the current Community Chest campaign, but not before they had gone into the pros and cons of the question.

Suggestion that the donation be given was made by Reeve A. I. Thomas, who noted all other municipal councils in the Greater Victoria area had contributed.

Councillor James Ellis, while agreeing the chest was a worthwhile organization, pointed out that in previous years it had been the policy of the council not to make grants to any organizations which campaign from house-to-house in the municipality. He observed no donation was made to the chest by last year's council.

Councillor G. R. Gullemaud wondered if it would be fair to the taxpayers to give a donation to the chest out of tax money when the individuals were in most cases, contributing out of their own pockets as well.

Councillor Fred Higgins said he was sorry to say residents of Esquimalt were not contributing individually to the chest campaign as well as they should. He said he personally spent three hours canvassing and had collected only $6-$5 from one person and $1 from another.

Councillor John Carey said he, too, had been canvassing for the chest but reported better luck than Councillor Higgins. He managed to collect $16, he said.

Roberta Rain Wears Ice-Blue Picture Gown For Nuptials

Saturday evening newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. John Arthur Mawer crossed to the mainland for a motoring trip to San Francisco, following their marriage in Victoria Truth Centre, before Rev. E. M. Smiley.

The bride, the former Margaret Roberta Rain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rain, 220 East Macdonald Avenue, and groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mawer, 314 Clifton Terrace, will return to their new home at 1169 Wychbury Avenue, Esquimalt.

For the ceremony, attended by many guests from out-of-town, baskets of fluffy white chrysanthemums banked the altar and ribbon nosegays marked guest pews.

White heather brought especally from Scotland by the bride's grandmother, was intermingled with white carnations and pink rosebuds in the bridal bouquet, a lovely complement to the bouffant wedding gown of ice-blue taffeta. The full-length skirt was enriched with lace inserts and French lace fashioned the bodice, yoked in net and buttoned down the back. The same exquisite lace was repeated in dainty puff sleeves.

A Mary Stuart headdress centred with fragrant rosebuds, held a blue silk French illusion hand-embroidered veil.

Attendants three wore toe-touching taffeta frocks. Miss Lou Harding, maid of honor, wore mauve taffeta with deep peplum over the full skirt. Miss Marguerite Mawer, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid in pink taffeta, featuring overskirt of net. Both wore crowns of natural flowers and had colonial bouquets of mauve gladioli and carnations.

Miss Marie Rain, small sister of the bride, as flower girl, was frocked in green silk taffeta, with cruet lace yoke and lace puff sleeves.

She wore pale pink carnations in her hair and carried a colonial bouquet.

Alex Green was best man. Bernard Rain, brother of the bride, and George Donaldson ushered.

Miss Marguerite Mawer sang "With This Ring I Thee Wed," and Mrs. Schervall played wedding music.

The couple received guests at Strathcona Hotel, where a four-tier cake centred the bride's table. Spence Thompson, uncle of the bride, gave the wedding toast. Bernard Rain entertained with violin selections.

When Mr. and Mrs. Mawer left on their honeymoon, the bride wore pink and brown accessories with her brown gabardine tulle, and corsage bouquet of pink carnations and heather.

Miss June Mitchell, who leaves Ganges, Salt Spring Island, in the near future, to spend several months in England, was the honor guest at a surprise farewell party given by Mrs. A. R. Price and her daughter, Miss Elsie Price, at their home, Beddis Road.

Vases of autumn flowers and ferns decorated the room, and a bowl of roses centred the tea table. A leather writing case was presented to Miss Mitchell, by the assembled guests who included Mesdames D. Fanning, P. D. Crofton, C. Fair, P. Watson, V. Graham, G. Shove, J. C. Smith, P. Lowther, A. J. several series of articles on health and beauty exercises for English papers and magazines. The Women's League of Health and Beauty Ltd. was founded in 1930 by Mrs. Bagot-Stack in London. It survived the war and is now going stronger than ever with a membership of more than 200,000, and with branches all over the British Isles, in Canada (Toronto, Montreal, Hamilton, Oshawa) and Australia, where there is also a training college for teachers.

The teaching course is three years, either in London or Sydney, Australia; the exercises are stretching-swinging movements to music, joint-loosening not muscle building.

Mrs. Bagot-Stack died in 1936 and the work has since been carried on by a board of directors, headed by her daughter, Prunella, now Lady David Douglas-Hamilton, wife of the famed athlete. She has been called the most beautiful girl in Britain.

The league in Canada is run by a board of Canadian directors.

Whole School At Ceremony As Classmate Honored For Bravery

Golden-headed Tasma Lee Hinch looks away shyly while Provincial Police Constable Peter B. Smith admires scroll honoring her for rescuing a two-year-old boy from Campbell River last May.

By DAVE STOCK

When the principal called all classes to assembly in the auditorium Tuesday afternoon, seven-year-old Tasma Lee Hinch, 3965 Telegraph Bay Road, was just as puzzled as the 336 other students at Doncaster Heights School.

But when she saw her mother,

Mrs. F. V. Hinch, in the corridor, she was more bewildered than anyone. And when her mother called her out of the grade three line and told her she wanted to comb her hair, she could hold her curiosity no longer.

"What's it all about?" she wanted to know.

It wasn't long before she found out.

Seated on the stage of the auditorium were Stewart Taylor, school principal, and with him, R. A. Pennington, deputy provincial secretary; Mrs. Pennington; B.C. Police Commissioner John Shirras; Schools Inspector J. F.

K. English and Sergeant Jack Hamilton, Saanich police. MAN TELLS A STORY

After "O Canada," Mr. Pennington was first to speak. He said he had come to the school to tell a story about a little girl, who saved a little boy from drowning at a place up-land called Campbell River.

At this, Tasma sat straight up in her chair and blinked. She remembered she had once pulled a little boy out of Campbell River when she lived there but, surely, she thought, this man wasn't talking about that. Why, that was long ago, way back in May.

As the man went on with his story, however, Tasma had to admit it sure sounded like he was talking about the time she and some other children had been playing and little Kenny Bowen, who was two, fell in the river and she had to swim and get him before the current carried him away.

Why the man was talking about her. He said Kenny's name.

Kenny Bowen was the little boy and do you know who the little girl was who saved him? Well...

TWO BIG POLICEMEN
Things moved swiftly, then for tiny Tasma. Next thing she knew two great provincial policemen were standing over her, not looking gruff like policemen in picture books do; but smiling and looking kind. Then, they were leading her by the hand to the stage where another policeman with lots of braid (Commissioner Shirras) said what a great thing she had done.

He handed her a big piece of paper all rolled up—a parchment certificate of the Royal Canadian Humane Association, he called it. He said she should take care of it and hang it up at home.

Then the lady (Mrs. Pennington) was giving her a bouquet of flowers, real flowers, and all for her very own self.

And then the school inspector was talking and saying what a good thing it was Tasma had been able to swim so she could save the little boy's life. He said every boy and girl in the school should learn to swim so they too, could save somebody if the time ever came.

"Now you see why I wanted to comb your hair?" Mrs. Hinch asked her daughter as the ceremony ended. Tasma, still overcome by the honor just accorded her, could only answer with a shy smile and a shake of her golden head.

"SHE SURE WAS BRAVE"
Back in class, regular work of school began where it left off. The same lesson will have to be taught again, though, for nobody had their mind on it yesterday. Everyone was thinking of "Tasma" and how all of a sudden she was a hero.

"She sure was brave," a grade sister confided to his chum.

"She sure was."

Commission To Probe Nfld. Living Costs

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A Royal Commission will be set up by the provincial government to investigate the cost of living in Newfoundland, Premier Smallwood told the legislature Tuesday.

Mr. Smallwood gave figures to show that Newfoundland retail stores were making as high as 175 per cent profit on certain foodstuffs. The lowest profit for the prices he quoted was 33 per cent and the average was more than 60.

The Premier said the Royal Commission on Prices would be invested with full authority to deal with all matters entering into costs of goods which affected the cost of living.

He added: "If we come to the conclusion profiteering is taking place, we shall not be happy till we place the profiteers behind prison bars."

Urge Veterans To Fill Out Post-Free War Medal Cards

At the post office and at all veterans' clubs there are post-free cards available for veterans of the Second World War to provide Ottawa with their present addresses for the war medal distribution, which was scheduled to start Oct. 1.

Distribution will involve a total of approximately 3,100,000 stars and medals, with an additional 524,000 clasps signifying at least 60 days' service outside of Canada.

Hon. Milton F. Gregg, Minister of Veterans' Affairs, pointed out recently that in the vast majority of cases it will be necessary for veterans to apply for their medals.

The reason for this is that the department does not have up-to-date addresses for thousands of veterans who have drifted quietly back into civilian life and have not been in contact with the department since discharge.

Mr. Gregg made it clear that the next-of-kin of deceased veterans will be eligible to receive the stars and medals which would have been awarded to the veteran had he not died.

"There will be no necessity for applications from next-of-kin of veterans who died on active service or as a result of a service condition disability," the minister said. The department has accurate addresses for these people. However, the official next-of-kin of those who have died since discharge of a non-service disability should make application in the same way as the veteran.

Saanich police reported today that a $60 radio and a green sweater worth $5 were stolen recently from the principal's office at Mount View High School.

The Men's Guild of St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, will meet Thursday at 8 in the Guild Hall, Yale St. Moving pictures will be shown.

introduced at the current session, was passed Tuesday night by the Commons.

The legislation, now subject to three readings by the Senate before it can become law, was approved after objections by some opposition members who sought either to have it shelved for six months or to have it amended in some particulars.

No formal vote was called, but Progressive Conservatives shouted "on division" to signify opposition to adoption of the measure, one of several bills on the order paper when the government dissolved the last session and called a general election for June 27.

Leading the opposition's fight was T. L. Church (P.C., Toronto-Broadview), a veteran member.

LENGTHY ARGUMENTS

He fought through part of two sittings to have formal approval delayed until today. In the end he protested in vain that Speaker Ross Macdonald and Deputy Speaker Alfred Dion had not put to the House a motion he had submitted during the discussion.

He said the motion asked either that the bill be given a six-month hoist or that it be referred back to the committee of the whole house. A motion to give a bill a six-month hoist is usually aimed at "killing" the legislation.

Mr. Church charged the legislation was based "entirely on the separatist doctrine" of breaking off Canadian ties with the Empire.

Mr. Church's arguments that the legislation was aimed at breaking off Commonwealth ties brought a retort from Edward T. Applewhite (L., Skeena).

Mr. Applewhite said that as a Canadian, a Liberal and as one who took second place to no one in his love of the Commonwealth, he wished to protest against "unjustifiable claims" that through the legislation Canada was trying to "sell out" participation in the Commonwealth.

ON HER OWN FEET

He said he wondered if Canada could be charged with selling out the Commonwealth because she established her own armed forces or because she had grown to the stage where she could stand on her own feet. It was because Canada could stand on her own feet that she was able to contribute to the Commonwealth.

Because of the overwhelming Liberal membership in the Senate, political observers believe the measure will run into little opposition there. When it becomes law, the membership of the Supreme Court of Canada will be increased from seven to nine to handle the extra work.

Men To Register For Y.W.C.A. Dances

Despite publicity to the contrary in the press during the recent Y.W.C.A. Convention held in Ottawa last May, the Blue Triangle Club of the Victoria Y.W.C.A. is commencing registration of male as well as female members of its 1949-50 season.

The Blue Triangle Club was designed to cater to young adults who enjoy friendly dances with the young people they know and the ones they would like to get to know. The club had a very successful season which ended in May of this year.

Dances will commence on Nov. 5 and will continue through until April 29, 1950. Prior to this date, all old members and prospective members are urged to register at the Y.W.C.A. during the week or on Saturday nights when the old and new members indulge in an informal get-together which includes dancing and general fraternization.

The services of the popular Island Bandwagon Orchestra under the leadership of Mr. George Davis, which substantially aided the previous season's success, have been secured again.

To Present Program Of Recorded Music

The Recorded Music Society's second recital will be held in the Strathcona Hotel banquet room at 8:30, Thursday.

In accordance with a main object of the society, a featured work will be Brahms' "Variations on a theme by Haydn," recorded under Toscanini. This work will be performed here this season by the Victoria Symphony under the direction of Hans Gruber. Mr. Gruber is counselor to the Recorded Music Society. Wherever possible the society seeks through recordings to stimulate interest in the living performance.

The second major work will be the "Sheherazade" of Rimsky-Korsakov, in a brilliant new edition. Other items of interest will be presented on the same program.

Pennant-Winning Yanks, Dodgers Boost Fine Rookie Crop For '50

NEW YORK (UP)—Profiting from the sad sequel of the Cleveland Indians and Boston Braves, 1948 pennant winners who stood pat and fell flat, the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers today readied a royal welcome for a batch of farm-grown reinforcements.

Brooklyn's farm system, baseball's most successful in 1949, produced several top-flight performers who may find their way into the Dodgers' regular line-up in 1950. The Yankees' minor league chain, only a half-step behind, also has come up with several promising prospects.

INFELD STARS

Most important newcomer in the Dodger set-up is shortstop Bobby Morgan, reporting from Montreal where he won the International League batting crown the past season. Brooklyn president Branch Rickey, unhindered with a dollar, already has placed a staggering $500,000 price tag on Morgan.

Buddy Hicks and Hank Schenz, former Chicago Cub second baseman, helped St. Paul to the American Association pennant and are ready for duty with the parent Dodgers' infield next season, if needed.

And in case the Dodgers run into third base problems, they can call on strong-armed Jim Baxes, who played sensational ball for Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League.

Brooklyn, with Gil Hodges at first base, is plenty satisfied at that station, but in an emergency they could draw Kevin Connors, Montreal's long-ball hitter, or Preston Ward, who had a fine year at Fort Worth in the Texas League and is regarded as "ready."

In the pitching department, the Dodgers will give further tests to Phil Haugstad, Morris Martin, Pat McGlothin, Clary Podbielan and Harry Taylor. Up-and-coming outfielders in the Brooklyn chain are Clint Conster of St. Paul, Cal Abrams of Fort Worth and George Shuba of Mobile in the Southern Association, all with big league experience.

PITCHING HELP

The Yankees, whose outlook is equally bright, believe they have another possible starting pitcher for 1950 in fast-baller Wally Hood. The young right-hander pitched for Newark and Kansas City the past season and was brought up by the parent New York club late in the campaign.

Binghamton manager George Selkirk thinks he has a pitcher who will help the Yankees in southpaw Ed (Whitey) Ford, a young southpaw who won five games in the Eastern League playoffs and racked up 34 strikeouts in three of those contests.

To go along with Ford, there's Arnie Landeck, another Binghamton hurler who won 18 games. Selkirk says both pitchers may still be a year away but insists they have a big league future. Dave Madison, a rubber-armed right-hander from Kansas City, also will get a spring training chance with the Yankees.

FIRST BASEMAN NEEDED

Chief infield problem with the Yankees is at first base where the club would like to free Tommy Henrich for the outfield. But the Yankees have first base candidates in Joe Collins, who batted .320 at Kansas City, and Dick Kryhoski, who helped the Yankees early in the season, batting .294 in 55 games and then went well with Oakland of the Pacific Coast League.

Since Bobby Brown, Phil Rizzuto and Gerry Coleman show no signs of slipping, the Yankees aren't overly worried at those spots. Jim Deising, who played the final few weeks with New York, will get a crack at an outfield job next spring. Other young outfielders in the Yankee chain who may be ready for the big time shortly are Bob Thurman, a long-ball hitter from Newark, and speedy Hank Workman, ex-University of Southern California star who played with Kansas City this year.

MASTRO MENTIONED

Ample stocked with catchers, the Yankees still could draw on hustling Bud Hestler from Newark or Vic Martore, said to be a right-handed counterpart of Yogi Berra, from Binghamton.

In addition to these ripe prospects, the Yankees and Dodgers have a wealth of material which could be used as trading bait.

All of which adds up to a happy 1950 campaign for the 1949 pennant winners.

N.H.L. Season Opens At Detroit Tonight

The National Hockey League's 33rd season gets under way tonight in Detroit where a pair of reshuffled clubs—Detroit Red Wings and Boston Bruins—will be out to prove whether their summer player swap gave them added strength.

The Wings and Bruins made one of the year's biggest hockey deals Aug. 16 and in the last few days Boston has gone even farther and traded defenseman Pat Egan to New York Rangers and little Nobby Warwick to Montreal.

Detroit and Boston finished one-two in the Regular N.H.L. season last winter but the experts agree enough changes have been made to make their chances this season open to plenty of speculation.

Tomorrow night, after the Bruins and Red Wings get the N.H.L. curtain raised, Montreal Canadiens will play host to the darkhorse Chicago Black Hawks, who will have Frankie (Mr. Zero) Brimsek in their nets for the first time.

Bill Tobin, president-owner of the Black Hawks, shelled out $25,000 to the Bruins for Frankie, and Tobin thinks he got a real buy. Big Bill figures Brimsek, 34, still has three more good seasons ahead of him.

The Stanley Cup champion Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Rangers—doormat for the league in recent years—will make their league debuts Saturday night. New York goes to Montreal and the Maple Leafs entertain Chicago.

LONGEST SEASON

It will be the earliest opening and the longest season in league history. Each club will play 70 games over a 24-week span compared with 60 games in 23 weeks last season.

Toronto, which finished fourth in the regular season last winter behind Detroit, Boston and Montreal, routed the tired Red Wings in the Stanley Cup finals, winning in four straight games. The Leafs, who are virtually standing pat on their championship line-up, are rated about on a par with Detroit for top honors in the N.H.L. this season.

PICKS WINGS, HAWKS

In Toronto Tuesday, Conn Smythe, manager of Toronto Maple Leafs, predicted Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks "might finish one-two" in the league schedule.

Smythe didn't venture any opinion as to where his own Leafs would wind up, except to say that the other N.H.L. teams including the Leafs "will be in

Filchuck Denies Offer Of Edmonton Grid Coaching Job

MONTREAL (CP)—Frank Filchuck, passing ace of the Big Four Montreal Alouettes, said today "it's news to me" when he heard of reports that he had been offered the job of playing-coach with a western Canada team.

The reports, also denied by the west, said Filchuck had been offered the job with Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Rugby Union. Annis Stukus, former Toronto footballer, is present coach with Eskimos on a one-year contract.

Filchuck's brief remark echoed a statement last night by R. M. Montague, president of Edmonton Eskimos, who said: "I don't know where these things come from but we have not approached Filchuck."

SUSPEND HOCKEY PLAYER

MONTREAL (CP)—Jacques Locas, forward, has been suspended by Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League. It was learned Tuesday.

Locas had been training with the new Cincinnati team of the American Hockey Association and differences arose over the salary question. Cincinnati is an affiliate of the Canadian club.

there battling" for the remaining playoff spots.

Smythe refused to be drawn out on a prediction of Coach Dick Irvin of Montreal that "Canadiens won't be in there this year because the forwards are too light." Irvin made the forecast while in Toronto Monday night for the all-star game.

"Did they lose any weight during the summer?" Smythe asked. "They've got Elmer Lach back, too."

Cougars Blow Lead To Canucks; Ironmen Win

Although their individual play was sparkling, Victoria Cougars lacked the necessary team-work and dropped a 7 to 4 decision to Vancouver Canucks who opened their Pacific Coast Hockey League home season last night before 2,500 spectators.

Meanwhile, Seattle's surging Ironmen notched their third win in as many starts to move out in front of the northern division race by four points as they edged Tacoma Rockets, 5 to 4, on the latter's home ice.

Play in the southern division opened last night with the defending champion Fresno Falcons tripping San Francisco Shamrocks 5 to 3 and San Diego Skyhawks downing Los Angeles Monarchs 4 to 2.

EARLY LEAD

The Cougars, who held a 3 to 1 advantage going into the second period, saw the Vancouver sextette open with a passing attack that paid off as the Canucks came through with three tallies without a reply from the locals. Mainlanders kept rolling through the final canto to outscore Victoria 3 to 1.

After Bill Shill banged Ivan Wilson's pass home at the two-minute mark of the first period to give winners a 1 to 0 jump, Cougar captain Bernie Strongman tied it up seven minutes later on a double assist from Roy McKay and Larry Thibault.

NETS PAIR

Eddie Mazur, who is rapidly proving to be one of the league's more speedier players, shot the locals ahead 2 to 1 less than a minute later and at 16:23 gave the Cougars their two-goal margin when he beat Vancouver goalie Lucien Deschene cleanly after taking Flori Goegan's pass.

After Wimpy Jones reduced the margin to a single goal at 7:34 in the second session, Paul Couture and Scotty McPherson notched two quick markers to reverse the lead. Big Chuck Millman moved his Canucks up 5 to 3 midway through the finale, but defenseman Tom Rogers put the Cougars back into the game when he snapped up Strongman's pass to score.

Len Mutcherson and Andy Chakowski salted it away, however, with a pair of late goals.

LATE RALLY

A three-goal spurge by the Ironmen in the third period gave them their close one-goal decision over Tacoma in the other, northern division tussle. Losers held a 2 to 1 first period lead on goals by Mel Read and Doug Adam, and maintained their margin throughout the second canto as each squad notched a single-ton.

Pete Kalapaca, Cal Stearns and Stan Maxwell scored three quick goals for Seattle to open the third period, however, and the Rockets managed to get only one back when Wingy Johnson notched his second at 8:28 to wind up the scoring.

Irish Top Cadets In Weekly Grid Poll

NEW YORK (AP)—Notre Dame is the top U.S. college football team, the experts decided in the second Associated Press nationwide poll of the season.

But the Fighting Irish landed top spot by only a slim margin of 30 points over Army, which polished off last week's leader—Michigan—in a 21 to 7 upset Saturday at Ann Arbor.

Michigan received 34 first-place votes, a week ago, but didn't get a single one this time. Yet, sports editors and sportscasters still thought enough of the Wolverines to give them enough other ballots to land them in seventh place.

Notre Dame, which brushed aside Purdue Saturday, 35 to 12, to remain among the undefeated and untied, collared 67 first-place votes and a total of 1,489 points.

Army, seventh in the first poll, was right behind with 1,459 points. The Cadets got 58 first-place ballots, as 172 sports writers and broadcasters took part in the poll. Only 80 voted last week, because of primary interest in the close pennant wind-ups in the National and American Leagues, and the World Series.

The third, fourth, fifth and sixth teams last week—Oklahoma, Tulane, Minnesota, and North Carolina, remained right in that order again.

A newcomer to the top 10 is Kentucky, which jumped from 15th place to eighth after handily defeating Georgia, 25 to 0, on Saturday. California moved up from 10th to ninth, trading places with Southern Methodist, which was idle last week.

One team was bounced from the leading 10—Southern California. The Trojans, who tied Ohio State, 13 to 13, fell from eighth to 12th.

Coach Threatens To Sell Members Of Pro Grid Squad

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—An angry coach, Paul Brown, threatened today to sell members of his champion Cleveland Browns

if they fail to perform better this week-end.

Still bitter about his gridders' 56 to 28 loss Sunday to the San Francisco 49ers, the All-America Conference mentor told his squad:

"I don't care who you are or how important you think you may be, I'll get rid of you."

The loss was the first for the three-conference champions in 29 games. Friday night the Browns tackle Los Angeles on the Don's home field.

Barrett Signs For 26th Pro Season

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—That tough old twirler, Dick "Kewpie" Barrett, signed another Pacific Coast League baseball contract Tuesday.

The 43-year-old mound artist inked a 1950 pact, for his second season with the San Diego Padres. It will be his 26th year of professional baseball, 12 of them in the Coast League.

In the 12 years, most of them with Seattle, he has won 225 regular season games. He came to San Diego late in 1948 from Seattle, which had relegated him to a relief role.

He took his regular turn here and was a big factor in San Diego's drive for a first division place and second money in the Governor's Cup playoffs.

HONOLULU—Philip Kim, 142, Honolulu, knocked out Arturo Barron, 144½, Los Angeles (1).

Appreciation Of Local Artists Needed Today

B. AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON
Education Minister W. T. Straith formally opened Arts Week in the Broughton Street Arts Centre Tuesday night and indicated that Victorians should pay more attention to local artists.

Mr. Straith referred to the belated appreciation of Emily Carr and to the unfortunate fact that so few of her paintings had been retained in her native city. He also spoke of the work of Jack Shadbolt and Judith Morgan. He noted that Miss Morgan's distinctive paintings had won high commendation when they were exhibited for the first time in Ottawa and other Ontario cities.

Dr. Harry Hickman introduced the speaker and thanked the committees and individuals responsible for the organization of Arts Week.

PERFECTION OF DETAIL

Ceramics, weaving, wrought-iron, silver and copper-smithing, wood-carving, sculpture, leather-tooling, are all to be found in perfection of detail and originality. Patience Birley, known for her animal personalities in pastel, has two of these on show. One of the outstanding pictures is Arthur Cheekley's tranquil "Sentinels." "Moonlight-Smugglers Cove," a water-color by Owen Goward, and a canvas, "Race Rocks," by Hilda Glyde, were much discussed last night.

A graceful, vibrant still life in oils by Ina D. D. Unthoff, and an attractive composition by Margaret Izard are among the selection of pictures. Muriel Barnes "Waiting" is an expressive study of the patient philosophy of a race done in brilliant, primitive color.

The exhibition of the work of approximately 50 artists and craftsmen is as fascinating as it is varied. Woodworkers have contributed several handsome pieces of furniture including a striking modern buffet by Earle Morrison, and a period drop-leaf table with exquisite inlay, the work of Mrs. Charles Wilson.

The delicate miniatures of Chippendale furniture made by A. Ware, drew attention.

REVIVES OLD ART

An old art has been revived by Mrs. D. L. Hobbs. From the nineteenth century she has rescued the process of flower pressing and two delicate floral arrangements against a water-color background are the result.

From the Barn Studio, there is sculpture by Peggy Packard. A rhythmic swirl of figures hammered out in copper is David Packard's interpretation of the words of John Donne:

"No man is an island entire of itself;

Every man is a piece of the continent,

A part of the main."

A number of fine articles have been loaned by Bessie Fitzgerald, of The Wagon Wheel, West Saanich Road.

The exhibition will remain open until Oct. 22.

B.C. Bulb Growers Study Problems Of Marketing Blooms

The pros and cons of a marketing board for cut blooms were discussed at a regional meeting of the B.C. Bulb Growers' Federation held at the Dominion Experimental Station, Saanichton, during the week-end.

Following presentation of talks on soil fumigates and nematodes control by Jack Boshier and Bob Hastings, a forum on the question: "Can we find a better method of marketing cut bloom without resorting to marketing control boards?" was discussed.

The affirmative was taken by Martin Neilson and Fred Concomi; the negative by H. Priester and Ben Van Ruiten.

Ernest MacGinnis, marketing commissioner for the provincial agricultural department, answered questions on the functions of marketing boards and how it would affect the outside flower industry. The meeting instructed a committee to continue its work on the marketing question.

Proceeding the discussion, provincial directors met with members of the science service council and mainland directors. A supper was held. Agriculture Minister Harry Bowman being a guest of the directors.

A Victoria airman, leading air-craftman G. W. Carter, son of Mrs. A. Carter, 749 Jasmine Avenue, is reported to be still in a semi-conscious condition at University Hospital, Edmonton, following a two-car collision near Calgary Sept. 24.

The injured man was transferred from Col. Belcher Hospital, Calgary, where he was taken after the accident, to the Edmonton hospital early last week when he failed to regain full consciousness.

At Edmonton he is being treated by the command consultant in neuro surgery.

A Calgary report of the head-on collision, which occurred on the Banff highway, said Carter and a soldier were hitch-hikers in one of the cars. Four persons were injured in the other car.

Cafe Expert Gives Advice, Technique On Food Handling

Techniques with tables, dishes and live "customers" drawn from the audience were demonstrated and discussed in non-stop fashion by John B. O'Meara, cafe service expert, who is in the midst of a four-day course in food merchandising at Strathcona Hotel.

He held his first class Tuesday and will continue until Friday. The course, sponsored by the Victoria branch of the Canadian Restaurant Association, is a popular one with more than 200 attending.

Lectures are from 2.30 until 4.30 at the Strathcona and from 8.30 to 10.30 at the B.C. Electric Building. The afternoon lectures Thursday and Friday will be given at Prince Robert House.

"Place your feet parallel to the table, your hip against the edge and reach into the booth swinging from the hip," Mr. O'Meara told his class.

"If you face the table and lean forward like this, you're liable to fall in the soup and that wouldn't be so good."

A humorous and colorful showman, Mr. O'Meara told the "food handlers" to smile as if they meant it and co-operate to put the customers at ease. When carrying cups on the arm, no more than four should be handled, he said.

He advised his class that the word "waitress" is taboo and the older word "hasher," unspeakable. "Food merchandiser" is the modern term, he said.

Becomes Canadian Without Having To Swear On Bible

Canadian citizenship papers have been awarded by Judge H. H. Shandley to Linn A. Gale, U.S. born cost accountant, who refused because of non-religious beliefs in County court last week to swear on the Bible the oath of allegiance to the King. Mr. Linn instead gave a declaration of allegiance by affirmation provided for under the Canada Evidence Act.

Judge Shandley withheld the papers in order to find out if granting them without the oath on the Bible was legal. Mr. Gale was informed Tuesday that the papers were awaiting him as the Canada Evidence Act provided the use of the declaration instead of the oath.

Mr. Gale in objecting to swearing on the Bible was on the grounds that he had no religion. He held that it was his right as an individual to freedom of thought and pointed out that witnesses who objected to swearing on the Bible could give evidence by affirmation.

The Canada Evidence Act provides use of the declaration for "office holders and otherwise." Court officials believe Mr. Gale was granted citizenship on the strength of the word "otherwise" in the Evidence Act.

Driver Gets Jail Term, Suspension

A jail term of seven days was imposed against motorist Roland A. Gervais, 2602 Government Street, today by Magistrate H. C. Hall. He appeared on remand and pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated while in control of a car on Linden Avenue Oct. 8.

Evidence was that he was driving on the wrong side of the road and struck a parked car. Hugh Botterell, counsel, made a strong plea for leniency in regard to license suspension on grounds the accused required it for his livelihood.

"In view of representations of counsel I will prohibit you from driving for one month on the understanding you will not drive other than for business purposes for six months," the magistrate said.

Story Of Indians Told To Clubmen

Customs and habits of B.C. Indian tribesmen during the early days of white settlement were outlined for the Victoria Kiwanis Club Tuesday by Rev. William Allan, former missionary.

There were about 20 tribes in different coastal areas when the white man came to this country, Mr. Allan said. Each of the tribes had its own language and own traditions. Nearly all Indians, however, were musically inclined and were great gamblers.

There were many wars between the tribes, the worst being that fought between the Haida Indians of the Queen Charlotte Island and the Tsimshians Indians of the Skeena River.

The Haidas were renowned as boat builders, while the Tsimshians were recognized as keen fishermen. Often the two tribes would trade, war canoes for fish oil.

Trouble between the two started on one such trading occasion when two Haida Indians took sticks to measure the amount of oil in a number of containers the Tsimshians offered in payment for a number of canoes. This act was taken as a gross insult to the integrity of the Tsimshians and war was declared immediately.

INSTALLMENT 21 WHO FIRED?

THE SIDE LIGHTS of the car were on and the two men watched Dollimore closely as he approached and passed them. The driver started the engine and let in the clutch, and the car began to move forward towards the entrance. As it did so, the second man turned in his seat, leveled an ugly little black revolver at Dollimore's retreating figure and fired. Dollimore threw up his hands and fell forward on his face. The car leaped ahead, turned into the street beyond the square and was gone like a flash. Windows in the square opened, and people seemed suddenly to materialize.

"Are you hurt?" a man asked anxiously as Dollimore picked himself up.

"No, I'm not hurt," he said unsteadily. "The car's gone, of course?"

As he spoke he felt the shoulder of his coat. The bullet had torn its way through the shoulder padding.

"There's a bobby late as usual," said the man as a policeman came running up.

"Here... what's all this?" he gasped.

"All right, constable," Dollimore said and added in a low tone: "I'm Inspector Dollimore of the Yard. Just come along to my flat with me and I'll tell you what happened."

"Are you hurt, sir?"

"No. Come along," said Dollimore hurriedly.

"Pass along... pass along," the constable ordered the crowd that already had collected. "You look a bit shaky, sir," he added as he fell in by Dollimore's side. "If you would you'd been as near that bullet as I was. Confound these people! I don't want a song and dance about this. Come inside, I'll explain to you. Do you mean to say they tried to get you?" the amazed constable demanded when they were inside Dollimore's flat.

THEY ARE FRIGHTENED

"Yes, I'd better report it to the Chief at once. I'm leaving for Paris on the night train."

"You were on that Mossford case?"

"Yes," said Dollimore as he dialed the famous number of Scotland Yard.

The Chief listened gravely to the news.

"Not even a scratch, as I told you, sir. It was uncomfortably near, though. I've been wondering why they did it."

"I don't know. It proves one thing, Dollimore, beyond doubt—while it is the theory you have built up is sufficiently near the truth to frighten them. I will send a car for you at eight-thirty. You'll be safe in Paris, I should say, but I shouldn't take any chances. When you turn up anything definite phone me. If this business has upset you, would you care to wait until the morning?"

"Oh, no," said Dollimore. "It was a bit unexpected, here in London, but, of course, we're dealing with American crooks among other varieties."

"That struck me, too," the Chief said. "Didn't you mention to that solicitor, by the way, that you might go to Paris?"

"I did: it was bluff at the time."

"He may not have taken it as bluff," the Chief said quickly. "Anyway, good luck! I may have news for you when you get back."

"I hope so, sir. Good night. Have a whiskey?" Dollimore suggested to the constable, as he turned from the telephone.

BOTH ON DUTY

"No sir!" said the constable firmly. "I'm on duty."

"So am I," smiled Dollimore as he poured out two drinks.

"Always remember your instructions and act in accord with them as far as possible. Cheerio!"

The constable grinned, and finished his drink as deftly as Dollimore had done his.

"They're not likely to return?" he asked as the thought occurred to him.

"I don't think so. The old trick probably deceived them. If a person shoots at you—fall. They think they got me."

"Then I'll go. But it's obvious that they know where you live," he added doubtfully.

"Don't worry. A police car will take me to Victoria in style, presently."

"I'd rather be on traffic duty, personally. You do know where you are?"

"And to think that I never even noticed what make the car was!" Dollimore said regretfully.

"By the way, sir—do I report this little affair?"

"Better not, I think. I'll be responsible. The Chief will not want it to get into the press. If you do report it, make that quite clear."

"I get you, sir. Good night."

Dollimore was already late for his evening meal which had been ready for some time. His packing was a matter of minutes, and he was ready for the car before it arrived. He was in the mood when inaction of any kind is irksome.

INQUIRIES IN PARIS

The Rue Blanche is a long, and in many respects a typically Parisian street. It runs from La Trinite to the Boulevard de Clichy and even in the early morning it was to an Englishman—extremely interesting.

He found the Cafe des Rosiers at length, hidden away in spite of its fragrant name—in a rather unsavory alley. Indeed, he also discovered that the name was the only fragrant thing about it, for it was a buvette of the poorest kind. The proprietor, arrayed in trousers and shirt, both of which were badly in need of washing, was unshaven; his eyes were curiously prominent and blood-shot and the impression he made on Dollimore was not a pleasant one.

"Monsieur," he said in a guttural tone when Dollimore approached the zinc bar.

"Cafe," said Dollimore.

He was aware that several of the men in the bar were glancing furtively at him; there was something in the atmosphere of the place which made it quite clear that it wasn't an ordinary buvette and the men sitting or standing about were, it was equally clear to Dollimore, not ordinary, decent working men.

"Marci," he said as the coffee was pushed at him—there is no other phrase for the off-handed gesture. It was obvious that he was a suspect, and not wanted there. The conversation, which had been animated when he entered, died down to an uneasy silence.

"I'm looking for an old friend of mine, Monsieur," he said in French. "A man called Lewin."

"Why come here? There is none of that name here."

"I know that. But I fancied you might be able to help me. He once gave this address in order that letters might be sent to him here."

"Many do that, Monsieur, as you see."

The proprietor indicated a green baize board, criss-crossed with black tape, in which several letters were fixed. "Why do you want Monsieur Lewin? I see no reason why I should hand out information about my clients to strangers. I get nothing out of it and my clients pay for their letters to come here. They are entitled to discretion."

"Quite obvious."

"Of course. I understand that, Monsieur. I will be frank with you. It is greatly to the gentleman's advantage that I should find out where he is."

"So?"

"Listen, Monsieur. I am a police official," said Dollimore quietly.

"So? I had gathered the fact, it is, if one may be permitted, obvious."

"Moreover I am, as you probably also gather, a British police official," Dollimore went on with a pleasant, frank smile.

"I congratulate you, Monsieur," he said, with an irony which was not lost on his visitor.

"By the way, M. Pichon, of whom you have doubtless heard, knows that I am giving myself the pleasure of calling on you at this hour," Dollimore said casually.

"M. Pichon," the other repeated. "Oh, yes, I know M. Pichon. He called here a day or so ago in connection with the same Monsieur Lewin, who must surely be an important man."

"He is, in some ways. I should be extremely grateful if you could give me any information about him."

"Alas, I cannot! And, more over, when I was visited by the excellent Monsieur Pichon, I told him that Monsieur Lewin had not been here at all for several weeks. It appears, however, that I was mistaken. My wife remembers that he called at different times, although I did not see him."

Dollimore was certain that the fellow was lying, but his manner gave no indication of this.

"He was living near here?" he asked.

A look of cautious cunning flashed into the other's face. "Who knows, Monsieur? I told M. Pichon I knew nothing. Monsieur will understand that my clients do not always come here from choice."

"It was only a day or so ago that Mr. Rollier was here!" ... another shot in the dark.

The man's start was not lost on Dollimore. "It might be so," he said uneasily. "Of the Monsieur Lewin I know nothing whatever. Nothing!"

"I understand," said Dollimore who saw that the fellow was not going to talk, and turned to the door.

Slowly, he walked back along the Rue Blanche. The admission into which he had tricked the gentleman with the broken teeth puzzled him. Why had Rollier been to Paris? Why had he been to that dingy little buvette when, if what he said were true, Lewin was on his way back to London?

And why had the proprietor of the buvette been so definite in his refusal to give any information? It was obvious, Dollimore decided, that the two facts were connected. Had Rollier been to the Cafe des Rosiers to make quite certain that the proprietor would not talk? And what was the information he was so anxious to suppress?

There was something missing—some fact that would link up the information he possessed into an intelligible whole.

Originally, the man had told M. Pichon that Lewin had not been to his shop for several weeks. That morning he had said he was wrong—he had volunteered the statement. The original statement to the French detective, Dollimore decided, had been the truth. It was Rollier who wanted them to think that Lewin had been in Paris, Rollier who had asserted that Lewin had been in Paris the night of the murder, Rollier who, clearly, had no intention of allowing them to get into touch with Lewin if he could in any way prevent it.

He twisted and turned these isolated facts in his mind as he slowly walked along, in an endeavor to get at the reason behind them. Apparently, in order to prevent his getting into touch with Lewin, he had attempted to shoot him.

He passed the Madeleine and came to the arched Rue St. Honore and still he sought for the solution of the puzzle. Crossing the Seine by the Pont Neuf he came to the Prefecture de Police. It was still early, but he decided to risk it and sent in his card to M. Pichon.

Plan 20 Low-Rental Duplexes In Saanich For Elderly Folk

There is a strong likelihood that three and one-half acres of Cedar Hill property in Saanich will be transformed into a residential beauty spot as a modern, comfortable refuge for elderly people in not very good financial circumstances.

From P. H. B. Dawson and other directors of the project, Saanich Council Tuesday night heard of the aims of a non-profit limited company to construct 20 duplexes at the south-west corner of Cedar Hill Road and Cedar Hill Crossroad to house 40 couples. There would also be an office building.

This was revealed at a public hearing called on the application to rezone the area to allow for duplexes. At the present time it is zoned for single-family dwellings.

Although men and women residents of the area made it clear they thought the project was a fine and commendable one, they wished assurances it would be an attractive spot and there would be no damaging results to the area from septic tank and storm drainage.

Hearing was adjourned to Thursday night at 7:30 to get reports from the municipal engineer and the sanitary inspector on what can be done in the area to eliminate trouble from septic tanks and storm drainage.

The "go ahead" signal on the elaborate scheme will hinge on the verdicts of the two municipal officials.

"The idea is inexpensive homes for elderly people who need homes to last them a lifetime," Mr. Dawson told the council and ratepayers.

LOW RENTAL

He said the scheme called for a $20-a-month rental for the couples and that any profits could be utilized to making the rental even lower in the future.

Duplexes would be 47 by 24 feet on a concrete base with no basements.

Mr. Dawson was confident the layout would make a pleasing picture. Property, he said, would be landscaped and if the residents wished they could attend to front and back gardens themselves.

One woman said she was against elderly people having to tend their own gardens, but Mr. Dawson said that this would be attended to if the persons were not able or willing.

"But we will insist the interiors of the houses be kept in top shape," he said.

Asked what people would be admitted as residents, Mr. Dawson said they would be the ones referred to the company by churches, the welfare department and the Salvation Army.

COMPANY DIRECTORS

It was learned that the company is composed of Mr. Dawson, Rev. Frederick Pike of St. Luke's Church, Major H. Nation and Miss Laura Holland, provincial director for welfare until she retired two years ago. Miss Holland is due back shortly from a visit to England.

John L. Clay, barrister, referred to Mr. Dawson as the main instigator of the scheme, which resembles the plan in New Westminster where E. E. Winch, M.L.A., was the company president. A similar scheme was being completed at Burnaby, it was reported.

It was explained that the only wages that would have to be paid out of receipts would be for maintenance of the subdivision. Mr. Dawson stressed that the plan was designed to be permanent and hinted that it was possible the church would ultimately become owners of the project for continuing the plan indefinitely.

It is understood the B.C. government has offered in projects of this kind to pay for one third of the actual construction costs on being satisfied that a bona fide company is behind the plan.

Mr. Dawson urged quick action as he said it was the company's wish to get two or even four of the duplexes completed this year.

Approves School Patrols In Saanich

"I have always admired the way those school patrols operated in Victoria and I think we've done a fine thing in following the same plan for our schools," said Councillor George Austin, Ward Three, at the meeting of Saanich Council last night.

The municipal police commission, headed by Reeve E. C. Warren, decided last week to put into operation the Kiwanis Club-sponsored plan to make conditions safer for the student population crossing in the path of the motoring public.

Calls Saanich Ward System Ridiculous And Miserable

Councillor Leslie Passmore of Ward Seven again failed to get the support of any member of Saanich Council Tuesday night on a move for abolition of what he termed "this absolutely ridiculous and miserable ward system."

He again wanted the question put to a vote of the ratepayers at the coming December election. His motion received no seconder.

Mr. Passmore started off on his pet topic when a letter was read from A. F. C. Watts, 2849 Heath Drive, complaining about the deplorable condition of the drive and lack of action to remedy it.

This opened a somewhat heated discussion on the road reconstruction issue in the municipality.

Mr. Passmore did not like the way each ward councillor was looking after his ward only and did not have the interests of the whole of the municipality at heart.

He scored the way all of Saanich's main road and bus routes had been torn up and graded and would not be completed for many months to come.

"Why didn't we go ahead with work on roads vital to the whole community—rip them up, grade them and then finish them this year?" he wanted to know.

BURNSIDE ROAD

Mr. Passmore was particularly annoyed over condition of Burnside Road. He said he would not be surprised if the Vancouver Island Coach Lines refused to use Burnside for its buses.

Councillor K. R. Genn, Ward Five, did not oppose the present contract system for reconstruction of the roads.

"We've got to suffer to get something better in the long run," he said.

George Austin, chairman of the public works committee, said he had always been in favor of not putting the road program under contract.

He said he had always believed Saanich should have used its own equipment and rehabilitated the roads on a progressive basis. His suggestion for a works committee meeting on the subject got lost in the debate.

Councillor W. C. Kersey, Ward Six, said he always thought the road work would be completed by six months from the start.

H. D. Dawson, municipal engineer, said it would be possible to get some of the roads done this year by using municipal equipment. However, he noted that specifications of the contract did not call for the program to be completed until June 31 next.

Asked by Reeve E. C. Warren, Mr. Dawson said his idea for the best roads was to leave the graveling on over the winter.

Rural Ward Five Group Believed After Secession

There were indications—but nothing definite—at Tuesday night's meeting of Saanich Council that the rural area of Ward Five in the municipality may present a petition asking Municipal Affairs Minister R. C. MacDonald for secession.

A group of ratepayers in that section of the ward are believed to be out for secession along with rural Ward Six. Mr. MacDonald recently announced that if such a move is contemplated in Ward Five he would like to have the matter considered at the same time as the cabinet handles the Ward Six application.

Strikes Out At Heavy Assessment

Councillor Leslie Passmore gave notice at Tuesday night's meeting of Saanich Council that he will seek realignment of his heavily populated Ward Seven boundaries, owing to an excessive assessment.

It is believed Mr. Passmore is on safe ground here, according to municipal officials.

Under the municipal Act, if the assessment in one ward exceeds that of another ward by more than 40 per cent, the councillor of that ward may request realignment of ward boundaries in order to bring about a more equitable assessment.

Saanich Council Briefs

APPROVE APPLICATION

Approval was given the application of Mrs. D. Heller, 3016 Tillicum Road, for permission to erect a grocery store and coffee bar near the corner of Tillicum and Cedar Avenue up to the front line of the property.

SAANICH REVISION COURT

Reeve E. C. Warren and Councillors W. C. Kersey and George Austin will comprise the Court of Revision for the Saanich municipal voters' list. Court will sit at the Royal Oak Hall on Nov. 15, it was announced at the meeting of the council Tuesday night.

58 SAANICH FIRE RUNS

During August and September, the Saanich Fire Department responded to 58 alarms of a varied nature. Saanich Council was informed Tuesday night by reports from Fire Chief Joseph Law.

Two Wounded In Winnipeg; Man Held By Police

WINNIPEG (CP)—An axe-wielding, elderly man broke into a north Winnipeg home Tuesday, critically wounded one woman and less seriously injured another.

Police said a man was arrested at the home of Salvation Army Major Stanley McKinley. In police custody is Jon Cree, 65-year-old fireman at a Salvation Army hostel. Police said he had been discharged from his job a few hours before the arrest.

Injured are: Mrs. Olive Armstrong, 48, in hospital with a fracture of the skull; and Mrs. Stanley McKinley, treated for gashed cheekbone and bruised hand, and later released from hospital.

Inspector of Detective David Nicholson said the axe-wielder forced his way into Major McKinley's home by smashing a pane of glass in the back door with an axe.

Police said the attacker first slugged Mrs. Armstrong over the head with the blunt end of an axe until she fell unconscious, then swung a glancing blow at Mrs. McKinley. The axe cut a gash over her left cheekbone.

An unidentified laundry man and woman, also present in the room, grappled with the attacker, disarmed him and held him until police arrived.

Bill Casey

ON A
TCA

"NORTH STAR" SKYLINER

Bill Casey, a Montreal businessman, had long treasured memories of his native Ireland... of the kinkfolk he had left behind... of the glens and fields and landmarks of his youth. But Ireland was so far away... or was it? Not when a man flies, as Bill did. It was just a matter of hours to Shannon and the scenes of his childhood.

And all the way, he flew in comfort up where the air is clear and quiet; winging with incredible smoothness aboard a roomy, beautifully appointed "North Star" Skyliner powered by 4 Rolls-Royce engines. Every want was anticipated by courteous attendants whose full time objective is the passenger's enjoyment.

Your home and kindred too, are only hours away by TCA. Isn't it time you took the trip... and realized that long deferred dream of reunion in the old land? Any TCA representative or your Travel Agent will show you how easily it can be done.

REDUCED EXCURSION FARES on Trans-Atlantic service now in effect. 60-day limit.

Special flights to Rome during Holy Year - 1950.
